December, 1994

A fast and fleeting year is rounding the corner sharply into a new year. It's just over a year I've been working here in San Jose - though I still call Hanford the "home place" for me.

Since we make advertising and political buttons here at Jarretts/Button King, I'll have to devise a Christmas card for next year that uses a button in some way.

Son John is living in Tallahassee, Florida and son Brian is going to school in Utah. I look forward to Christmas and the days following, since we'll all rendezvous in Hanford.

Friend Joe has a home in Hanford I've been helping to remodel. Lot's is done on the project, but lots more needs to be done. That'll fill any spare time in 1995.

And now, may the peace and joy of Christmastide in your hearts abide.
