Dear Children and Grandchildren,

It is my hope and prayer that you will eventually take an interest in your "family tree." For several years, genealogy has been an avocation with me (but viewed with boredom by my immediate family!?).

For more than a year I anticipated the Coffin Family Reunion to be held at Nantucket, Massachusetts. When the registration information arrived in the mail in May, I quickly sent my reservation. I secured lodging months before the event.

Knowing that those attending the reunion would discuss their individual lineage, I began to collect information and enter it into the computer. A 64 page booklet accompanied me to "the far away island."

Originally, I had only planned to stay on Nantucket Friday, Saturday, Sunday, October 2nd, 3rd, 4th--the scheduled dates for the reunion. However, the more information I read--and entered into the computer--the more I suspected I would need more time to explore the town and collect additional genealogy.

I was preparing my wardrobe for weeks in advance. I bought warm boots and numerous jersey-type (wrinkle-free) skirts and pullovers. A month prior to the event, everything was ready for the garment bag.

At 10 p.m. on Tuesday, September 29th, 1992, I was waiting at the appointed location for the van that transports passengers from Lancaster to the Los Angeles airport. It was 80 degrees at 10 p.m.! I was wearing a "fall" dress, carrying a "winter" coat over my arm. The one-and-one-half hour drive was followed by a two hour wait in the terminal before boarding Northwest flight #932. We departed right on schedule, 2:20 a.m. (PDT), and arrived in Boston at 12:21 p.m. (EDT) Wednesday, September 30th. It was an easy transition from the large jet to a small commuter plane. When I arrived on Nantucket at 3 p.m. it was 50 degrees and the temperature kept falling. (The warm dress and coat felt good!)

My nose was pressed against the airplane window during the flight from Boston. I wanted to see as much of Cape Cod--and the area--as possible. My ancestors had sailed those waters and I, too, would have taken a boat but my time was limited. I photographed Nantucket as we approached the island.

There was only one mode of transportation from the airport: taxi ($6.00 for a one-and-one-half mile ride). I got "weepy" as we approached the town and began to bump over cobblestone streets. Everything was so quaint and picturesque!

Next stop: the Periwinkle Guest House. A gracious Irish lady welcomed me and showed me to my room in the "annex." I didn't unpack; I was anxious to explore the town. With my warm boots on--and a scarf on my head--I braved the wind and cold for the first of many walks around Nantucket town.

When I returned, my hostess had provided three more blankets (by my door). They were greatly appreciated because there was no heat in my room (or in the "annex"). When I made reservations (in May), with a Nantucket lodging coordinator, I said I wanted "the cheapest place on the Island--within walking distance of the reunion headquarters." I was able to boast about my savings but not everyone would be willing to share a bathroom with other guests (and do without heat).

Each morning the guests of the Periwinkle enjoyed fresh coffee, orange juice and a variety of muffins (apple-spice, bran, corn) with butter and jam. It was an ample "breakfast" for me and an enjoyable time of fellowship with people from various areas of the United States. We all fell in love with Noreen--our hostess.

On Thursday, October 1st, I followed a "walking tour" map and visited most of the attractions. Although the weather was cold and windy, I was grateful that it wasn't raining. (Only a week or two before, tropical storm Danielle had dumped rain on the eastern seaboard.)

In the Whaling Museum, a captivating old gentleman told the attentive audience about the whaling industry and described artifacts in the building.

A transplanted Iowa couple were volunteers at the Congregational Church. I climbed dozens (hundreds?) of steps to the tower where I had a spectacular view of the town and harbor.

When I arrived at "The Oldest House" the docent was just leaving (I suspected she was seeking some "modern conveniences"). I had the house all to myself; I took quite a few pictures inside the home where my 5th great grandmother was born. What a privilege; it is rare for someone to see the 300 year old Colonial America house of an ancestor. (Not so rare if visiting the British Isles, France or Germany.) An amazing fact: I didn't know about my family connection to the house until the next day while doing research.

Cold, and tired, I enjoyed a delicious bowl of New England clam chowder in a little tavern called The Brotherhood of Thieves before returning to my room. Actually it was a quaint, quiet little "restaurant" in the late afternoon--and the only place I had seen with food I could afford. (Fortunately, menus were posted outside food establishments.) There are no "fast food" restaurants on Nantucket; no McDonald's, Taco Bell, Jack-in-the-Box, Pizza Hut, Kentucky Fried Chicken....

I found everything on the Island quite expensive: lodging, food, souveniers. Tourists are THE industry and apparently visitors come prepared to pay over $100 a night for a room, and over $15 for an individual meal. "Expresso" shops were always crowded, selling a wide variety of coffees for $2.95 a cup. They often had a variety of expensive pastries and ice cream, too. Some gift shops were selling postal cards for 65 cents each. I was tempted to purchase a pottery coffee mug shaped like a capital "D" with the inscription, "Things were so expensive on Nantucket, I could only afford half a cup." I saved the $5.95 (or was it $6.95?) and purchased a genealogy book instead.

Back in my tiny room (after the $5 bowl of chowder), I began to write picture postal cards to friends and family. I had the old house all to myself although there seemed to be a lot of guests in the main house. Wrapping up in blankets was a small price to pay for being in an authentic 1850s(?) house. This $30 a day bed and breakfast was a bargain! For $135 I could have had a queen-size canopy bed, private bath--and heat.

Friday: I spent almost the entire day in the Edouard Stackpole library doing research. The shelves were loaded with books full of information about the Coffin family and other early settlers on Nantucket. I read about the Bunker's, Folger's, Gardner's, Macy's, Paddock's and Starbuck's; I made numerous photocopies of information. About 2 o'clock I walked to the Jared Coffin House (a hotel) and "checked into" the reunion. With the details of the weekend in hand, I hurried back to the genealogy library.

By 7 p.m. on Friday evening, a large area in the Jared Coffin House was full of noisy people enjoying wine, cheese and crackers, while getting acquainted with "cousins." Underway: the event hailed as "A Tribute to Tristram: 1992 Coffin Family Reunion."

The program of activities for the weekend had been thoroughly preplanned and appeared (to me) to materialize right on schedule. Before 9 a.m. Saturday we began to gather in front of the Jared Coffin House for the short bus ride to the High School. Following the opening remarks and introductions, at 9:30 a.m., we saw a very informative slide presentation about the restoration of "The Oldest House." A discussion and slide show regarding 18th Century lifestyles of Coffins, and other Island families, followed at 10:30 a.m.

The weather was warm and beautiful at 11:30 as we climbed aboard the bus again for a short ride to Sunset Hill and a point near "The Oldest House." After we had walked the last couple of blocks, we lined up for our catered lunch. Almost 300 "cousins" were seated on the grass eating their food or moving around to visit with others. Some were waiting for their turn to tour the house that my ancestors owned --the house alternately referred to as "The Jethro Coffin House," "The Paddock House," and "Horseshoe House."

A little after 1 p.m. a Nantucket fire engine arrived--with a "cherry picker" boom. Promptly at 1:30 a photographer climbed into the bucket and was raised to an elevation above the crowd. The descendants of Tristram Coffin positioned themselves with "The Oldest House" in the background. Numerous pictures were taken.

I lingered at the site long after the crowd had departed. I was one of the last ones to take a guided tour through the historical landmark owned and operated by the Nantucket Historical Association. The house was purchased by my 6th great grandfather, Nathaniel Paddock, on September 21st, 1708 and remained in the family for more than 130 years.

That evening we lined up in front of the Jared Coffin House again for a bus ride to the Nantucket High School. A very professional "amateur" video was shown which took us back to our ancestral home at Portledge Manor in Brixton, England. The Coffin family immigrated to Haverhill, Massachusettes in 1642, moved to Newbury, Mass. in 1648 and Salisbury, Mass. in 1654. Thence to Nantucket in 1660. The Coffin Family Reunion crowd was spellbound while watching history unfold before our eyes.

As I said earlier, the reunion was well planned. Our $65 registration fee had included free admission to all Nantucket Historical Association museums and research library; a wine and cheese social; lectures, lunch, and a tour of the Island. A little after 1 o'clock on Sunday afternoon, October 4th, I was seated right behind the driver of a large modern sightseeing bus. I marveled as she manipulated that monstrosity through narrow, cobblestone streets. A native of Nantucket, and himself a Coffin descendant, gave us a thorough history as we traversed the length and breadth of the Island. In addition to being the whaling capital of the world, in 1830, Nantucket once had the distinction of being the leader in cranberry production. We saw cranberry bogs, the Sankaty lighthouse, Surfside Lifeguard Station, and numerous other attractions.

Reportedly, about 180 Tristram Coffin descendants were crowded into the Whale Restaurant of the Folger Hotel for dinner on Sunday evening. This was an additional, optional, expense and one that I would have skipped if I had known ahead of time that we could arrive later for closing speeches, etc. (Another $25 spent on photocopies from the research library would have been more meaningful to me!)

How quickly the sands of time slip through the hour glass; how rapidly the reunion weekend slipped into history.

Monday morning (after those delicious apple-spice muffins, orange juice and coffee) I was at the genealogical library before it opened. I snacked on a couple of nutrition bars during the day and didn't leave the room until after closing time. There were so many books I didn't peruse; there was original material that I didn't touch. To say, "I hated to leave!" is an understatement.

On Tuesday, October 6th, about 9 a.m., a taxi picked me up at the Periwinkle and took me to the Nantucket airport. At 9:25 a little airplane flew me back to a bustling metropolis. As long as I live, I will always have fond memories of my visit to "the far away island."

NANTUCKET

"The Grey Lady"

Nantucket is a town, a county, and an island in the Atlantic Ocean, located thirty miles south of Cape Cod, Massachusetts.

NANTUCKET'S WELCOME

Nantucket Island's welcome to visitors and residents is her most important heritage. Native Americans appreciated her relative isolation from the mainland and found food among her abundant shellfish resources and the many fish swimming in her surrounding waters. Later English settlers envisioned subsistence farming and raising sheep on the pasturage of her moors. Others sought religious freedom and a quieter lifestyle.

As her whaling economy flourished, many came looking for work— in the forecastle, on the quarter-deck, or in one of the many businesses and trades that supported the industry on-shore. More recently, as increasing numbers have recognized Nantucket's resort and retirement advantages while appreciating her architectural preservation, her historic hospitality has expanded.

NANTUCKET NATIVES

First came the native people of the Paleo, Archaic and Woodland periods. The Nantucket Indians found by the white man spoke an Algonquian dialect. Having bridged the watery distance from the nearest mainland by island hopping in dugout canoes, they were engaged in a hunter-gatherer existence supplemented by growing corn. These Native Americans explained the mysterious beginnings of the "faraway isle" with legends of Moshup, their God and legendary whaleman. They believed that Nantucket and its neighbor, Martha's Vineyard, were the ashes from Moshup's pipe, or his discarded slippers filled with sand.

THE "GLACIER'S GIFT"

Today Nantucket is recognized as the "glacier's gift" of the last Wisconsinan ice sheet, exemplified in the eastwest terminal moraine from Sankaty Head to Dionis and the broad outwash plain from Tom Nevers Head to Madaket. Both Sankaty and Tom Nevers are marine scarps.

Maddequecham Valley and ponds, such as Long, Hummock and Miacomet, are outwash channels while Washing and Gibbs Ponds are kettle holes. Coatue and Great Point are more recently formed barrier beaches.

PROPRIETORS AND SETTLERS

In 1659, Thomas Mayhew, having previously secured royal-patent and Indian-sachem rights, sold Nantucket Island for £30, plus two beaver hats for his wife and himself, to nine other proprietors. Each of the ten chose a partner. The twenty proprietors then attracted fourteen artisans and mechanics who were given a half share, bringing the total to twenty-seven. Some of their names can still be found on Nantucket: Coffin, Macy, Starbuck, Coleman, Swain, Gardner, and Folger.

These new Nantucketers were largely sons of New England's first immigrants, bringing cultural baggage from a feudal past. They had lived on one or more of the same north shore communities: Salisbury, Newbury and Salem, Massachusetts, or Hampton and Dover, New Hampshire. They came seeking economic opportunity and political, as well as geographical, separation from the Puritan oligarchy of Massachusetts Bay Colony. Until 1692, the island was part of New York. Theologically nonconformists, they sympathized with Baptist, Presbyterian or Quaker doctrines. Here they hoped to become a landed gentry but wanted to avoid establishment religion. They were in no rush to form congregations.

First to arrive in 1659 was Thomas Macy, a Baptist, accompanied by his family, his friend Edward Starbuck and 12-year-old Isaac Coleman. Macy came early to escape the threat of Puritan discipline for having briefly sheltered Quaker visitors in his Salisbury home from a sudden storm. He and his party survived the winter on the shore of Madaket Harbor through the generosity of the local natives, then thought to have numbered 3,000. The following year Tristram Coffin and other proprietary families came, selected their homesteads and apportioned the common lands. They built their first homes between Cappamet Harbor on the North Shore, Maxcy's Pond and Hummock Pond. In 1672, they named their town Sherburne. Although their Indian neighbors seemed culturally unable to comprehend the principle of permanent alienation of land, they were hospitable, peaceful, willing to be Christianized, and agreeable to granting "grass rights."

WHALING REPLACES FARMING

17th century Nantucket was an inadequate agricultural commune in the early stages of transition to an industrial core community based on whaling. Although Captain John Gardner had originally come from Salem in 1672 to teach codfishing, commercial fishing was neglected until the next century. In 1690, Captain Ichabod Paddack was obtained from Yarmouth to teach Nantucketers to catch the right whales which migrated along-shore in the winter months. The Indians proved to be exceptionally skilled whalemen who combined contemporary and archaic European techniques to develop a genuinely American type of whaling. They provided a connecting link in the rise of shore whaling.

When storms turned their small North Shore harbor into Capaum Pond, island inhabitants moved toward the Great Harbor we know as Nantucket Harbor. It would be well-suited to the larger vessels which became necessary after 1712, when a Captain Hussey, his sloop blown off- shore, captured a sperm whale and revolutionized Nantucket whaling.

SECTS DOMINATE ISLAND LIFE: QUAKERS, CONGREGATIONALISTS

Not until 1708 did the island's English inhabitants begin to form congregations. Three years after the Society of Friends Monthly Meeting was organized by Mary (Coffin) Starbuck, Quakers gathered in their new meetinghouse near the old settlement. By 1725, Congregationalists were meeting nearby in the Old North Vestry and listening to the sermons of Pastor Timothy White. By 1740, Quakers and Congregationalists dominated the religious, social and political order of island life.

INTERNATIONAL RIVALRY AND INDEPENDENCE

During these years as Britain engaged in its European wars, Nantucket's maritime economy was shaped by the threat of French and Spanish privateers and directed by confusion of Parliamentary restrictions, duties and embargoes. Subsidies encouraged islanders to set sail for the Davis' Strait whale fisheries in Greenland's icy seas.

Not until the Treaty of Paris 1763, at the end of the French and Indian War, did Nantucket's whaling prospects improve. England's acquisition of Canada opened new fishing as attractive to whalemen as well. In 1775, Captain Uriah Bunker reported sperm whales on the Brazil Banks. The Rotch Market opened at the foot of Main Street. The whaling fleet had reached 150 vessels but circumstances were about to worsen.

Life on Nantucket during the American Revolution was severe, particularly after the Declaration of Independence on July 4, 1776. England had been the principal market for whale products. The island was

NANTUCKET'S MINORITIES
Nantucket's earliest black populat vulnerable to raids from both sides, the Quakers were pacifists, a strong Loyalist sentiment existed, and the Colonies offered little protection to island inhabitants or vessels. More than 100 vessels, mostly whalers, were captured by the British. The island was unable to sustain its population. By 1779, there was no local firewood.

After the Treaty of Paris, 1783, Nantucket whalemen's efforts to revive their industry in all reaches of the Atlantic Ocean were uneven. By 1791 the Whaleship Beaver, Captain Paul Worth, rounded Cape Horn to enter the Pacific. To avoid Britain's heavy postwar tariff, merchant William Rotch encouraged many Nantucket whaling captains to migrate to Dartmouth, Nova Scotia; Milford Haven, Wales; or Dunkirk, France. The international rivalry between Britain and France on the high seas threatened American shipping until after the War of 1812.

This second war for independence reintroduced most of the problems island inhabitants had experienced during the Revolution. Political infighting between local Federalists and Democratic-Republicans complicated most attempts to present Nantucket's situation before the General Court of Massachusetts or the Congress, or even to negotiate with the British command to bring the common necessities of life through the blockade. The whaling fleet, 116 vessels at the beginning of the war, was reduced to 23.

WHALING'S GOLDEN AGE TARNISHES

At the war's end, Nantucket entered her Golden Age of Whaling. In 1819, Captain Joseph Allen, Maro, discovered the Japan Grounds. Nantucketers figured importantly in the American identification of Pacific islands and played a role in the nation's 19th-century Pacific policy.

In 1830, with 7,202 inhabitants, Nantucket was recognized as the third seaport town in size, wealth and importance after Boston and Salem in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. Her waterfront was crowded with oil refineries, candle factories, sail lofts, rope walks, and the shops of coopers, shipsmiths, tinsmiths, outfitters, pump- and block-makers. Of the stylish whaling mansions built on Main and Pleasant Streets, most impressive were the "Three Bricks" built by merchant Joseph Starbuck for his sons, and the two Greek Revival dwellings his daughters occupied across the way. Many Orange Street houses belonged to whaling captains, and Union Street, below Quanata Bank, was a neighborhood of first mates.

However, the "Golden Age" would soon tarnish. Nantucketers failed to recognize that the island's whaling industry had already peaked in the number of vessels compared to New Bedford in 1829, and would peak in valuation by 1842. The growth of railroads allowed mainland ports to dominate the domestic market. Nantucket's London market for whale oil disappeared after the English introduction of gas lights. Island inhabitants were affected by the Panic of 1837, and the suspension of specie payment by the banks. Kerosene was introduced in 1838.

Other factors brought the already sorry whaling industry to its conclusion. The Great Fire of 1846 destroyed the wharves and about 400 buildings—over one-third of the town. Although much money was spent to rebuild the business district, many whaling dollars went "around Brant Point" to be invested in railroads, cotton mills and other ventures. The Gold Rush of 1849 attracted Nantucket sons and ships to California's "El Dorado". Twenty-one sea captains and their families were among the Nantucketers moving to Ravenna, Ohio, in the 1840's.

The panic of 1857 was only less disastrous than the one of 1837, because town business was so reduced that comparatively few were affected. The news of Colonel Drake's "rock oil" well (1859) in Titusville, Pennsylvania, guaranteed leadership in the oil industry. And, the destruction of whaleships by Confederate raiders of the Civil War sounded the death knell for Nantucket's once primary source of income. On June 14, 1870, the last whaler arrived in Nantucket Harbor.

Nantucket's earliest black population were African slaves who benefited from the Quakers' abolitionist beliefs. Black crew members shared directly in the profits of their whaling voyages under the "lay" system. Absalom Boston, the first black whaling captain, commanded an all-black crew. Later, Portuguese blacks lived in the "New Guinean" section of Pleasant Street. They had been recruited by vessels putting in at the Cape Verde Islands off the west coast of Africa.

Similarly, Portuguese whites from the Azores came first as whaling crews and later as immigrants to become fishermen or farmers. Later, smaller ethnic groups came from Ireland, Canada, England and Scandinavia looking for resort-related work. Second generation descendants now hold important positions in town affairs and in the business community.

Women have played an important role in Island life. Whaling wives expected to take charge of family and financial responsibilities when their husbands were at sea, sometimes for as long as five years. During the post-Civil-War depression, there were so many female shopkeepers that a section of Centre Street became known as "Petticoat Row."

DEPRESSION YEARS

During the 1850's and 1860's, more than half the island's population had abandoned their homes to seek work elsewhere. Those who remained tried to survive the depression by fishing and farming. Although cash was in short supply, Nantucket responded to the Civil War with men and money. The population, nearly 9,712 in 1840, was reduced to 4,123 by 1870. Others would soon go. Despite a declining tax base, increased town spending was authorized for relief of the poor and unemployed; for education, including a new high school; for better health and sanitation; and, for such capital improvements as fire protection, water works, sewers, paved streets and shade trees. In those difficult times, citizens were permitted to pay their taxes by working for the town.

"SUMMER BUSINESS"

By the 1870's, Nantucket began to make the transition to the resort industry, or summer business, by converting many large surplus homes into rooming houses and hotels. Land speculators, both island and off-island, subdivided lots on the Cliff, at Surfside, at Madaket, and along the South Shore between Hummock and Long Ponds.

However, most of these land ventures failed. Real estate transactions would take a different course over the next years. It would be another century before land speculators would again be rampant on Nantucket. One positive effect of the 1870's activity was the building of the Nantucket Railroad to Surfside (1881), and ultimately to Siasconset.

In the 1880's and 1890's, true resort hotels, such as the Nantucket Hotel on Brant Point, the Point Breeze [now The Folger], and the Sea Cliff Inn [since razed] overlooking Nantucket Sound, brought employment and income. The island would benefit from the leisure time made available to Americans by the nation's post-Civil War industrial prosperity.

Other capital improvements appeared. In 1893, electric street lights were voted by the town. From 1881-89 the west jetty was built; then the east jetty was started; and, finally, a channel was dredged between them to make the harbor more approachable. In 1894, the State Road to Siasconset was commenced.

Siasconset, previously a sleepy fishing village, revived as a resort community. She had her own post office. Her fish houses became the rose-covered cottages of the Actors' Colony. Union Chapel, a golf course and the Casino all appeared before the turn of the century.

ACCENT ON PRESERVATION

By the 1950's, properties, mortgaged to meet basic living expenses during the Depression years, and neglected because of wartime shortages, were being resold or refinanced, renovated or restored, and occupied, as Nantucket's resort industry flourished. Meanwhile, efforts were being made to protect the architectural and ecological character of the Island.

Historic Districts legislation beginning in 1955, first applied to two districts, then to the entire island, with guidelines for the repair of existing structures and the construction of new ones. This was supplemented in 1972 by a zoning ordinance to control the use of land and buildings.

The Nantucket Maria Mitchell Association (1902), long known for astronomical, botanical, ornithological and zoological research and education, has expanded its programs and properties. In 1963, the Nantucket Conservation Foundation was formed to purchase and preserve open land. It now administers more than 7,700 acres, including a nature sanctuary and cranberry bogs. In 1964, the University of Massachusetts Field Station was established at Quaise to teach research in the humanities and the natural sciences. In 1984, a Land Bank Bill was passed to assess real estate transactions at 2% to create a fund for the purchase of desirable preservation sites.

By the 1960's and 1970's, the climate for historic preservation had improved. Leadership was assumed by the Nantucket Historical Association, the Nantucket Historical Commission, the Nantucket Historical Trust and the Preservation Institute: Nantucket [PIN]. The Nantucket Historical Trust (1956 - 1987) funded the restoration of historic homes and commercial districts which might otherwise have been lost. PIN surveys residential and non-residential historic structures. Since 1972, it has offered a course for historic preservation and restoration training in conjunction with the University of Florida, School of Architecture. To further educate the public, the Nantucket Historical Association employs high standards of state-of-the-art preservation techniques, and of performance in the care and management of its properties.

RECENT CHANGES

In the 1960's, 70's and 80's, waterfront changes were determined by the demands of the island's resort industry. Sherburne Associates converted the three southernmost wharves into a first class marina/shopping complex with shops, restaurants, artists, craftsmen and facilities for pleasure boats. The Steamship Authority responded to its increased business by upgrading Steamboat Wharf.

Land development escalated as summer and winter residents increased. Some were attracted by the island's vacation advantages. Others settled down to enjoy an enriched retirement life in a historic community. New construction brought condominiums, interval ownership, larger private homes, and additional shopping areas to be reached by automobile.

KEEP NANTUCKET SPECIAL

Islanders and off-islanders share many questions about Nantucket's future. Answers vary. We all know that the island is a fragile environment. We love Nantucket's moors, her beaches, and even her "grey lady" fog. We enjoy walking her historic streets and using her bike paths. We like to browse in her shops and galleries. We have our favorite restaurants. We appreciate her music, her theater, her art. We have an affection for the Oldest House, the Old Mill, Brant Point Light, the Town Clock, the North Church spire, the Atheneum, the Cottage Hospital, the Coffin School, the Maria Mitchell Observatory and the Whaling Museum. All belong to her historic hospitality.

And we realize that whether we share these for a few hours, for a season, for several years or for a lifetime, we are joined in the responsibility for their preservation. In our appreciation of Nantucket's past and present, we must be part of the answer to her future.

HISTORIC NANTUCKET

TAKE A FASCINATING TOUR THROUGH HISTORY The evolution of the island from a small farming community, to the center of America's whaling industry and eventually, an important summer resort will unfold before your eyes! Start at any of our ten historic buildings, such as...

THOMAS MACY WAREHOUSE (1846) Our Museum of Nantucket History takes you from the island's geologic beginnings through the eras of whaling and summering. Included are candlemaking demonstrations and dioramas.

OLDEST HOUSE (1686) Still on its original site, this house was built after the first settlers arrived in 1659 to raise sheep and to farm. Recently restored, the Jethro Coffin house exhibits furnishings and activities typical of the first two families who lived in the dwelling.

MACY-CHRISTIANHOUSE(1740) Built during the whaling era, the home is now furnished to reflect the colonial period and the colonial revival style of the Christian family (1934).

NANTUCKET HISTORICAL ASSOCIATION

WHALING MUSEUM (1847) Whaling brought wealth and prosperity, unique for a small, isolated island. The museum depicts this great industry and how its rise and fall determined the course of Nantucket's history

HADWEN HOUSE (1845) Built for a wealthy whale oil merchant, whose oil factory is now the Whaling Museum, this Greek Revival mansion and period gardens capture the full splendor of Nantucket's prosperous whaling era.

Did you know that in Native American dialect "Nantucket" means "land far out at sea"? Yes, getting to Nantucket takes some time and planning. But the island's distance from the continent is one of its greatest assets.

Because it's far away at sea,

Nantucket has been able to protect its natural beauty from over-building. Islanders and visitors alike choose

Nantucket precisely because of its gentle isolation.

You have two choices as far as getting to the island; plane or boat. Within those two, there are alternatives, depending on your point of departure, time constraints, budget, and whether or not you need to bring your car. You'll find in this chapter listings of the companies that service the island, and you can call them for specific details on schedules and rates.

If you're inclined to fly, there are several commercial airlines with regularly scheduled flights to Nantucket departing from Boston, New York, New Bedford (Massachusetts), Hyannis, and also from the nearby island of Martha's Vineyard.

Traveling by ferry from Hyannis takes about two and a half hours. The Steamship Authority ferry accepts cars, and it operates year-round. (If you are bringing your car, make reservations early.) The Hy-Line operates from May to October, also from Hyannis, and carries passengers only. There's secure parking (for a fee) at both lines, and they take passengers and bicycles without reservations. If you're traveling during high season or on holidays, make sure you arrive at least one hour before departure.

Private boats cruising to Nantucket are advised to make reservations for a slip or mooring. You can call the Dockmaster at the Nantucket Boat Basin, or the Harbormaster at the Town Pier for information.

Once you're in Nantucket, you can easily move around without your own car. The island is small, and there are many options open to you: renting a car, bike, or even a moped if you are adventurous.

NANTUCKET'S MOST UNIQUE 'TOUR'

You've not seen Nantucket until you've seen Nantucket from the tower of the Old North Church. From Great Point to Eel Point, 'Sconset to Madaket, the panorama of moors, hills, ponds and beaches is spread before you — a living map of the Island.

Nantucket Town lies at your feet. Enjoy a visual stroll through narrow, winding streets lined with beautiful homes and magnificent gardens, and the Old Mill timelessly turning.

You probably don't need anyone telling you what you must see or do on Nantucket. If you chose to come here, it's because you already know that Nantucket is a special sort of place, and spending the whole day by yourself, walking on the beach, might be all you want to do. But there are many facets to this small but definitely not simple island, and some of the most beautiful ones could go by, quietly unnoticed, unless you had several months to spend exploring...

So, take the following as simply an attempt to gently point out some Nantucket sights and activities to make your stay here, whether long or short, different from any other vacation. The list of what Nantucket offers includes historic sights and examples of fine architecture; museums, libraries, music centers, performing arts theatres and art galleries; a great variety of land and water sports, plus all the equipment and instruction to practice them.

To present the information in this chapter, we've borrowed a "tour guide" approach, organizing the contents with an eye to the time available. You can easily pick and choose from these suggestions, and put together your very own tour.

HALF DAY

Start by climbing the tower of the Congregational Church. You'll have the whole island at your feet, as if you were looking at a living map. It's open weekdays 10 to 4, June through September. Then, take a walk downtown, stopping at some of the old buildings preserved by the Nantucket Historical Association. (See their listing in this chapter.) You can buy a pass that allows you to visit all buildings, or pay an admission fee at each separate one. It's a good idea to begin the walking tour at the Thomas Macy Warehouse on Straight Wharf. Their exhibits include a new diorama and demonstrations on how Nantucket grew from a small farming community to the center of America's whaling industry. Another "must see" is the Whaling Museum, where the fragile-looking boats and the primitive tools used by the whalers, side by side with the exhibit of an enormous whale, will instill in you a deep appreciation for the dangers behind the trade that shaped Nantucket's history.

Use the map at the end of this section and the explanations provided on the Nantucket Historical Society's display page to plan your historic walk around Nantucket town. As you walk along the cobblestoned streets in the center of town and by the dock area, the beautifully arranged store windows will undoubtedly beckon you! Nantucket shops and galleries are full of treasures, and are certainly worth being included in your tour.

Going on a bus, taxi, or van tour of the outskirts, even if it's only for one or two hours, will help give you an idea of Nantucket's size, its soft landscape and well-preserved solitude. There are several companies offering good guided tours; take a look at the listings in these pages for more information.

ONE WHOLE DAY AND ONE EVENING

Renting a bicycle and exploring the paths to Madaket or 'Sconset will give you a feel for Nantucket that you'll never get if you just ride in a car. True, you won't cover as much terrain, and you might be slightly disheveled when you're back... but you'll see and absorb so much beauty and color that you'll feel as if you had been away on vacation for days, not just a few hours.

If the weather's good, swimming could be part of your Nantucket tour. Several beaches have showers and changing rooms. At the end of this chapter, you'll find a description of Nantucket's public beaches and their facilities to make your planning easier.

Your evening in Nantucket could range from sedate and elegant, to very romantic... With so many excellent restaurants on Nantucket, your problem will be making up your mind. (Look under "Food and Drink" in this guide). There's piano music, and even dancing at some restaurants. Or maybe you'll want to try other options, such as a beach clambake, or even a harbor sunset sail!

TWO OR THREE DAYS

This timeframe gives you the chance to add some wonderful "options" to your Nantucket visit. One of the best:

Rent a jeep to go to the faraway beaches at Great Point. (You'll need a permit from the fire department if you want to barbecue on the beach.) Exploring the island's otherwise inaccessible coast with a four-wheel drive vehicle is an exciting adventure, and if you have young children, you'll probably have a hard time convincing them to do anything else... Unless, of course, you offer to take them on a whale-watching expedition, or deep-sea fishing on a chartered boat, two other favorite activities that you can include within a two-day stay.

As for entertainment, check the pages of the Nantucket papers. The island has three movie theaters, and two very active live theatres whose shows are extremely popular. The Musical Art Society gives evening concerts during July and August and the Nantucket Arts Council offers Friday evening performances from June through September. The Chamber Music Center has two concerts, one in the spring and one in the fall. On Sundays throughout July and August, there are evening band concerts in the Gazebo at Harbor Square, and noontime concerts on Thursdays at the Unitarian Church. A popular family entertainment is the slide show by Nantucket photographer Cary Hazlegrove, featuring many different aspects of island life.

... AND A NANTUCKET VACATION

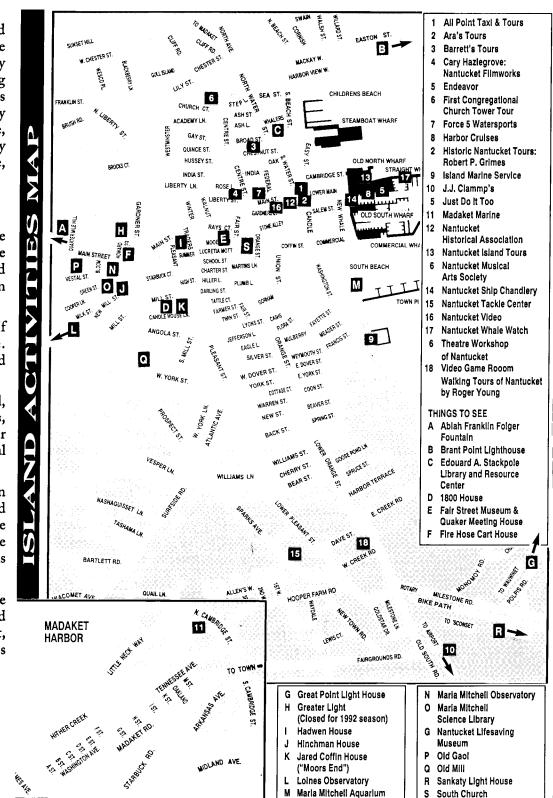

If you are one of the lucky people who can spend real vacation time on the island, you'll see that Nantucket offers you as many activities as you have the energy to enjoy. Pick and choose from the ideas that follow, keeping in mind that the island will wait for you... you don't need to cover all the possibilities in one single vacation.

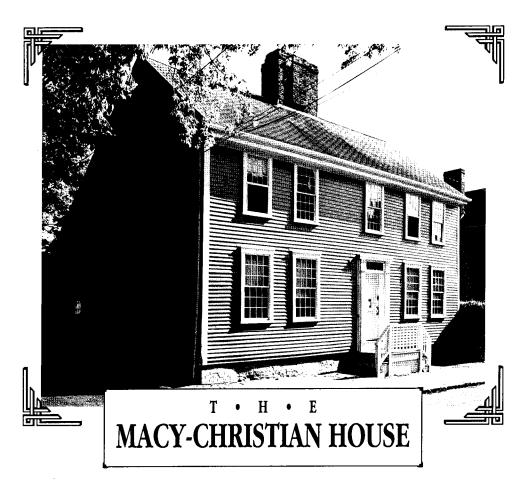

A week's stay in Nantucket gives enough time to enjoy some great sailing. If you've always wanted to learn how to sail, you're in the right place. Nantucket has the right combination of quiet waters, changing winds and currents to keep you safely challenged.

The golf and outdoor tennis season is longer on Nantucket than off-island, due to milder autumn weather. There are two public nine-hole golf courses, one in 'Sconset, another in Miacomet. Public tennis courts are located near Jetties Beach, and you'll find several private tennis clubs that offer professional instruction and are open to the public.

Do your children need their own plans? The Maria Mitchell Association offers families some wonderful opportunities. Besides their renowned observatory and Natural Science Museum, there are astronomy and nature lectures geared especially to young people. A temporary library card from the Nantucket Public Library will grant you borrowing privileges, and story hour is held there on Sunday mornings.

Maybe you'll want to include some Nantucket-style activities that you've only dreamed about before, and not just the classic shell-collecting and beach picnics. This could be the time to see what bird-watching is all about, learn from the experts how to weave your own lightship basket, try flying lessons at Nantucket Memorial Airport, or take an art course...

The 1992 season marks the reopening of Nantucket Historical Association's Macy-Christian House. The Macy-Christian House is a simple gem sitting on the corner of Liberty Street and Walnut Lane. It is a leanto built facing northward, circa 1740. It is assumed to have been moved because houses of that same style and period face south. There is evidence that the roof was raised sometime after its relocation to Liberty Street, making it a full two-story house.

Thomas Macy was the first owner of the house and, in 1745, he deeded it to his son Nathaniel Macy. It remained in the Macy family until 1827, when it was sold to Philip Folger. It changed hands over the years and occupants included the Monnahanit Girls Club, St. Paul's Church, and the Hospital Thrift Shop. In 1934 an Episcopal minister from New York City, Doctor George P. Christian, and his wife Ruth purchased the house as a summer residence. They had admired it on holiday long before they made it their own.

The Christians spent the first year collecting antique furniture and accessories to create an ambiance of comfort and history. They wanted their home to reflect some of the values of the colonial period, centering on home, hearth, and family. The Christians chose furnishings that attempted to reproduce the way the house was back when the original owner lived in it.

In 1971, 12 Liberty Street was left to the Nantucket Historical Association through Ruth Christian's will. As it reopens to the public this season, the interpretation of the house is a wonderful example of both the colonial period, and the colonial revival at the end of the nineteenth century. On the first floor, the keeping room and parlor will reflect the revival style that the Christians created, while the formal parlor and upstairs bedroom are illustrative of the Macy style of living. The contrast of the authentic as well as the reproduction of colonial times makes a trip to the Macy-Christian House a must.

The Macy-Christian House will open daily May 22 from 11-3 pm, and on June 13 hours are extended to 10-5 pm. Admission is $2 for adults, $1 for children (5-14), $1.50 each for groups of ten or more. Entry to the Macy-Christian House is also included on the $5 Visitor Pass, which allows you to see all of the Nantucket Historical Association's properties that are open to the public. \mathfrak{F}

Coffin Family Homes in Nantucket

Jethro Coffin House

Sunset Hill, built in 1686 for Jethro and Mary Gardner Coffin. It is known as Nantucket's "Oldest House," and was purchased by the NHA from Judge Tristram Coffin in 1923 and restored by Winthrop Coffin of Boston. A lightning strike in 1987 necessitated its next major restoration.

Auld Lang Syne

Broadway, Siasconset, also known as the Captain Henry Coleman House, built in 1675. This house was used by Micah Coffin in the 18th century as a fishing headquarters. Indians employed by Micah did the fishing while he did the cooking. The house is the oldest on the Siasconset bank.

Major Josiah Coffin House

60 Cliff Road, built in 1724 by Major Josiah Coffin for his son Josiah Coffin, Esquire. Major Coffin, the son of Mary (Gardner) and Jethro Coffin, won his commission through service in the French and Indian War when privateers threatened the coast.

Thaddeus Coffin House

89 Main Street, built between 1746 and 1750, reportedly by Thaddeus Coffin who died in 1787. The house then passed to his son, Captain Thaddeus (1755-1820). This Pre-Revolutionary structure has undergone many changes, yet has managed to maintain its original charm.

Coffin-Gardner House

33 Milk Street, built in 1820 by George Coffin. The house, which is typical of early 19th century architecture, has remained in the same family since its construction and has been changed very little over time.

William Coffin House

32 Union Street, built soon after the American Revolution for William Coffin. Here William entertained Admiral Sir Isaac Coffin and plans were made for the organization of the Coffin School.

Coffin School

Winter Street, founded by Sir Isaac Coffin in 1826. The building was completed and opened in 1854. It was built to give "a good English education to the youth who are descendants of the late Tristram Coffin."

Moor's End

19 Pleasant Street, built between 1829-1834 by Jared Coffin and called "Moor's End" because it was on the outskirts of town at the time it was built. Mrs. Coffin thought "Moor's End" too isolated and convinced her husband to build a second house on Broad Street.

The Jared Coffin House

29 Broad Street, built in 1845 by Jared Coffin. The Jared Coffins moved into the house three months before the Great Fire, but used it as a residence for less than a year before moving to Boston. It then became a hotel, formerly known as the Ocean House, and remains one of the best-known on the Island. Among its famous clientele were President and Mrs. Ulysses S. Grant who stayed there on August 27, 1872.

Micajah Coffin House

Corner of Pine and Charter Streets, built in 1760 by Micajah Coffin. Micajah, referred to as "Captain," was the son of "schoolmaster" Benjamin and father of "merchant" Zenas. He followed in Benjamin's footsteps and served as the town scribe. He lived in this house until his death at the age of ninety-three.

Zenas Coffin House

9 Pine Street, built in 1812 by Zenas Coffin who at the time was the richest man in Nantucket. Zenas lived in this house with his wife, three daughters (Eunice, Lydia, Mary), and three sons (Charles, Henry, Frederick). He often repeated to his wife the Tristram Coffin tradition: "Give our daughters houses! Give the boys my business!"

Lydia Coffin Crosby House

90 Main Street, built in 1828 for Matthew Crosby. Lydia was the second daughter of Zenas Coffin and the first of his daughters to marry. She married Matthew Crosby in 1813, and died in 1823 while plans for the house were still being made. It was rumored through the town that Zenas helped Matthew finance the construction of the house.

Mary Coffin Swift House

y 91 Main Street, built in 1820 by Zenas Coffin for his youngest daughter Mary and her husband Henry Swift. In 1830, Mary's brother, Henry Coffin, brought ivy and box back from Madeira for Mary's garden, the start of the now wellknown "growth box."

Eunice Coffin Macy House

99 Main Street, an expansion of the original house built by Valentine Swain in about 1770. In 1825, ownership of the house passed to Zenas Coffin and he gave the house to his daughter Eunice who married Thomas Macy in 1824. Eunice was Zenas' oldest daughter and the last one to marry. Zenas was quite relieved when she finally married and very happy to provide her with a house.

Ann Coffin Crosby Macy House

86 Main Street, built after the marriage of Ann to George C.
Macy in 1839. Ann was the daughter of Lydia and Matthew Crosby, and granddaughter of Zenas Coffin. It was rumored that Zenas provided for this house, for it was paid for with proceeds from Zenas' estate.

Mary Coffin Crosby House

98 Main Street, built in 1836 by Benjamin Coffin and his wife Mary Coffin Crosby, a granddaughter of Zenas Coffin. Benjamin, a whale oil merchant, was the son of Jared Coffin. The house stands on the site of the Friends' Meeting House erected in 1790.

Henry Coffin House

75 Main Street, built between 1832 and 1833 by Henry Coffin. Henry was one of the largest land and ship-owners on the Island. He was responsible for planting the elm trees on both sides of Main Street, as well as unknowingly introducing heather to the Island along with the over 40,000 pines and larches he brought from England.

Charles G. Coffin House

78 Main Street, built between 1831 and 1833 by Charles G. Coffin.
It was the first brick house built on Main Street and reflects the somber Quaker attitude that influenced Charles more than his brother, Henry, as evidenced by the more elaborate exterior of Henry's home.

Coat Of Arms Conundrum

The Coffin coat of arms has always been a puzzle. Almost all designs contain an azure shield but the numbers of bezants or coins and crosslets vary. Both theoretically indicate participation in the Crusades. Even the shape of the shield and the flower arrangement above and around it changes. There are numerous different mottoes at the base of the crest.

One constant, however, is the crowning martlet which is an imaginary bird supposed to be always on the wing since it had no feet. It has been interpreted as representative of the younger sons who must always rise by virtue and merit, having so little land to set foot on owing to England's premo geniture laws.

For the first Coffin Reunion in 1881, souvenir china was decorated with two shields, one with three and one with four bezants. They stand today as a symbol of the continuing puzzle.

New Life in the Oldest House

Research, expertise, technology and dedication give the Oldest House new life.

Piecing It Back Together

By Mark Fortenberry and Diane Ucci

fter lightning struck the Jethro Coffin House, the extent of the damage seemed almost overwhelming. Once the house was stabilized and its contents removed, many people pondered the building's future. There were those who felt it was unfortunate that the house had not been completely destroyed so it could be reconstructed from the ground up! Among historians and preservation technologists, however, restoration and architectural conservation were the prevailing attitudes.

Going about that restoration would be a complicated matter. Victoria Hawkins, then Curator of Collections, was knowledgeable about the Oldest House because she had initiated the research studies done in preparation for its tercentennial celebration in 1986. It was she who was made responsible for convening from the community a group of concerned individuals with various kinds of expertise. Included in the "Oldest House Think Tank" were: Pat Butler, Administrator of the Historic District Commission; Helen Chase, local historian; Mark Fortenberry, restoration carpenter (and now the NHA Curator of Structures); Martha Groetzinger, then Chairperson, NHA House Committee; Nathan McMullen and Lyman Perry, architects; and Katherine Walker, then the NHA's Assistant Curator of Collections. As they wrestled with differing restoration philosophies and approaches to site-specific problems of the Oldest House, the Think Tank also consulted nationally recognized specialists - among them, Abbott Lowell Cummings, an expert in seventeenth-century construction and author of The Framed Houses of Massachusetts Bay, 1625-1725; F. Blair Reeves, then Director of the Preservation Institute: Nantucket and Professor of Architecture at the University of Florida; William Murtaugh, former keeper of the National Register of Historic Places; and Nicholas Pappas, architect for Colonial Williamsburg. After on-site visits these individuals stressed that, in addition to its importance locally, restoration of the Oldest House offered an excellent vehicle for telling the full story of preservation to a national audience. With this additional motivation, the NHA embarked on restoring the historical fabric of this national landmark and island treasure.

One thing was clear from the start: the cost of this restoration project would undoubtedly be high. Fortunately, John Welch, then NHA Administrator, had reevaluated the insurance on all the properties when he joined the staff. His prudence meant that the appropriate coverage was in place against this disaster. The carrier, New Hampshire Insurance Company, dispatched Kris Larsen to do an extensive onsite investigation of the damage. The combined efforts of Larsen and John Welch set the funding mechanism in motion. The Massachusetts Historical Commission subsequently provided a $50,000 matching grant. Victoria Hawkins persuaded Nan-tucket's Board of Selectmen to designate August 8-14, 1988, as Oldest House Week, during which many individuals and groups organized fund-raising events on behalf of the stricken building.

As people gathered the wherewithal to restore the Oldest House, the Think Tank and others refined the philosophy which would direct the operation. Highest priority went to maintaining the Oldest House's historical integrity. It was critical to retain as much original material as possible while stabilizing the building and guaranteeing its safety for the visiting public. These goals required discussion of many alternatives at each phase of this almost three-year process. Repair of badly damaged timbers was among the first decisions that had to be made, and two very different approaches presented themselves immediately.

Jack Sobon, historic architect from Adams, MA, and coauthor of Timber Frame Construction, recommended removal of the damaged structural members and installation of new beams. Pursuing this line of thought, Think Tank members spoke to a group in England that proposed a means of exactly reproducing the original, damaged beams with new materials. This method proved complicated and expensive.

Conor Power, President of Structural Technology, Inc., represented the other viewpoint. Having accomplished the initial bracing of the nearly collapsing structure, he introduced the concept of a steel framework to avoid replacing the damaged timbers. While Victoria Hawkins and other members of the Think Tank found the concept of the steel cage acceptable, they felt the visibility of the support columns it required would interfere with future interpretation of the house as a period piece. Moreover, in 1986, Morgan W. Phillips, architectural conservator for the Society for the Preservation of New England Antiquities (SPNEA), had done elevation drawings for a structural survey of the Oldest House. Victoria and Mark Fortenberry color-coded them by age of wood and ascertained that more than sixty percent of what survived was original, three-hundred-year-old timber. discovery reinforced the decision not to disturb this material and to pursue some other method.

A key decision in the restoration was the choice of professional oversight for the work. The NHA selected John Milner Associates, historical architects from Chadds Ford, PA, on the basis of their expertise and sensitivity to the organization's concerns about minimum disruption of the house's historic fabric. Responding to the problem of intrusive steel columns, John Milner consulted structural engineer Gary Gredell, Gredell and Paul, Inc., who designed a system that eliminated them and still allowed the timber framework to be used.

Over the next several months, Milner's firm assembled plans and specifications necessary for the restoration. Christina Henry, one of Milner's associates, was the architect who maintained the project's specifications. Once the plans and specs were in place, the NHA hired Kris Larsen as general contractor. In addition to the usual qualifications, Larsen, who was now in private practice, had an intimate familiarity with the site from his insurance investigation.

A long list of specs subsequently went out to bid: they ranged from the project sign and photo-documentation to required archeological work, wood and plaster consolidation and the chimney restoration. Although the bidding process was "blind," it happily brought the NHA to select local contractors, Perkins/LaFrance, Inc., for all carpentry and the installation of the steel overlay system on the roof.

They also performed the structural epoxy consolidation which was of paramount importance to the Oldest House restoration. Morgan W. Phillips of SPNEA had done extensive research on this method and recommended the epoxy consolidation technique as the least intrusive and most historically acceptable. It was an especially desirable option because it could be used while the existing members were in place. Perkins/LaFrance injected epoxy to make the timbers sound and inserted fiberglass rods only when additional strength was needed. While this process was underway, SPNEA performed precipitation consolidation, treating in their lab in Waltham, MA, those original timbers that were easily removed. The technique arrests surface powdering and other forms of disintegration and is as intricate as some surgical procedures. Wrapped in a silicone rubber blanket, the timber is immersed in a chemical solution and exposed to various temperatures. This invisible means of consolidation leaves the beams with no darkening or glossy effects, and when returned to their original position, they look undisturbed.

Wood epoxy reinforcement (WER) strengthened other weakened timbers as well. Workers had to remove floorboards, for example, to reach the tops of some of the beams so they reinforced them at the same time. Slotting the backs, they inserted steel plates embedded in epoxy before replacing the boards. The flooring no longer vibrates when visitors walk over it.

The erection of the steel frame worked in harmony with these consolidation techniques. When the structural engineers, Gredell and Paul, Inc., surveyed the site, they indicated that the roof might not survive the repairs that were necessary for other parts of the structure. An invisible steel cage would remove stress from the timber frame and simultaneously provide a space for insulation, a vapor barrier and air movement to keep the house cool in

The NHA discovered another environmental issue, unrelated to lightning damage, during the course of the restoration -- improper site drainage and moisture penetration into the Oldest House's foundation. In view of the long-term benefits it would provide, the budget expanded to include an improved drainage system as part of the project. Because this improvement would disrupt the earth surrounding the house, however, the Massachusetts Historical Commission now required an archeological survey of the property. The Office of Public Archaeology at Boston University was the successful bidder; and although Ricardo J. Elia, their Principal Investigator, and Sara F. Mascia, the Project Archeologist, uncovered interesting material, they saw no reason to oppose the drainage system on archeological grounds. Betty Little, the NHA's Archeology Committee Chairperson, reviewed all the survey reports and concurred in their judgment.

As restoration work progressed, craftspeople encountered problems normally unknown in regular house construction. Shaped by the elements over time, the roof had, for example, developed its own topography. In creating the new steel framework, Perkins/LaFrance had to replicate these peaks and valleys, maintaining the slopes of the original roof. The crew first stripped the shingles off the roofboards and ran string lines both horizontally and vertically above each rafter location. They pulled the strings taut and then measured from string to roofboards. Using this information to conform the new roof even more closely to the old, Perkins/LaFrance ordered steel Ibeams that had to be bent to specification. Where strength was not as critical, such as in the lean-to section of the building, fiberglass beams replaced the steel.

Perhaps the most visible element in the project was the horseshoe chimney, shattered by the lightning blast. Striebel, the mason whom SPNEA had recommended to do the emergency stabilization of the chimney, was the successful bidder on the repairs. In rebuilding the stack, he was able to salvage some four hundred bricks found after the strike. For the remaining brickwork, the Morin Brick Company in Maine made new bricks by the same method used to make the originals.

Interior plastering presented another challenge to the restorationists. Research produced an original seventeenth-century recipe for plaster, composed of lime, horsehair, cement and sand. Available horsehair proved a difficult ingredient to locate because pig's hair is more often used today. The new mixture eventually contained all the original ingredients plus a bonding agent to stabilize the solution. Tom DeCosta, a plasterer from Marion, MA, performed the new plastering with historically appropriate techniques. Andrew Ladygo stabilized the plaster that survived the lightning strike by using SPNEA's acrylic adhesive process.

As part of his investigation in 1987, Morgan Phillips of SPNEA had done an interior paint color investigation and found decorative graining on the underside of the joists in the parlor. In one of the last touches to the restoration, Julie Rabin of Warwick, MA, duplicated this graining.

Andrew Ladygo from SPNEA stabilizes the existing plaster.

Phillips's greatest contribution to the work, however, was surely his legacy of architectural drawings. They recorded in fine detail the many particulars that were especially important to the interior phase of the project.

Although the 1927 restoration effort did not benefit from such extensive documentation, neither did it have to deal with the devastation left by the lightning strike. Nor was that yearlong project as extensive as the present one. It repaired the chimney, rebuilt the lean-to and constructed a new foundation under the walls of the entire house. The work was not without its controversy, though. Casement windows, for example, replaced the old double-hung sash windows, and their diamond-shaped panes caused talk among Nantucketers of the time.

At the completion of the 1927-28 restoration, Mr. William F. Macy, NHA President, addressed some of the controversy and criticism at the rededication ceremony: "And now the job is done, what do we think of it? We expected criticism, and we have had it - plenty of it." He continued,

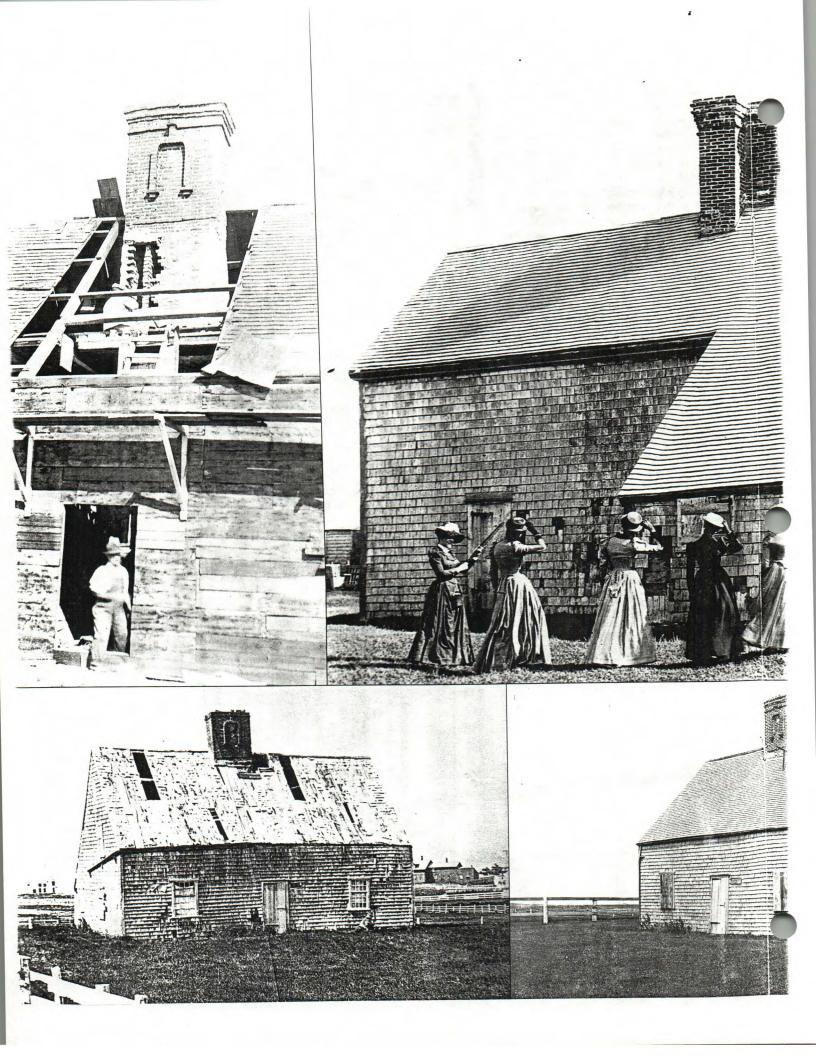

But who are we to criticize those who have made a life study of the subject? All that can be done is to study the few surviving examples of the period and such illustrations, plans and descriptions as are available, and leave the matter to experts who have made such researches their life work. Such experts, fortunately, we have had, and we are safe in assuming that the restoration is as nearly correct as it is humanly possible to make it.

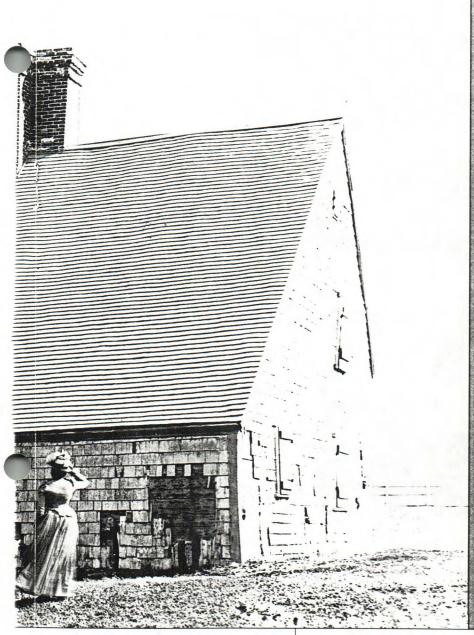

We have done as much in the 1988-Having consulted the 1990 restoration. wisdom of experts in the field, we listened, learned and proceeded with a well-planned course of action. The Oldest House retains its place in the ranks of our nation's landmarks with as much of its historical integrity intact as "humanly possible." We have made any changes only to update its evolving story for future visitors. One such alteration occurred for obvious reasons: Boston Lightning Rod has connected the entire steel framework of the building to a lightning protection system that equals that of any New York City skyscraper.

Mark Fortenberry is the NHA's Curator of Structures, and the staff member who became responsible for overseeing and documenting the restoration project. Diane Ucci is the Associate Editor of Historic Nantucket.

"It was bedlam..."

Text and photos by H. Flint Ranney

t was just after 5:00 p.m. when I got home from the office in a heavy thunderstorm. I had been in the house for only a couple of minutes when there was a very loud crack — almost a snapping sound — and an immediate, blinding flash of lightning. I knew that something nearby had been struck and began walking around the house to see if it was us — either the house, or the flagpole, or a tree out front. Before I could finish, the telephone rang, and Merle Orleans ordered me in an excited voice to go up to the Oldest House because it had been struck and was burning.

My son Will and I jumped in the car and drove over to Sunset Hill. We went up the hill the wrong way off West Chester Street and parked in a woman's driveway. She was looking distraught because the gutter and downspout of her house were hanging at an odd angle, and there were tree branches on the ground. For a moment, I thought that this was where the lightning had hit. We ran out of the car and up the cobblestones in the pouring rain toward the Oldest House. I had my camera inside my raincoat to keep it dry.

The scene before us was bedlam. The horseshoe chimney was completely gone, and the southeast section of roof had been blown loose. One end was touching the ground, and the second floor was open to the rain. Several firemen were inside looking out through the opening. The fire department had been there for a few minutes and had extended a ladder toward the house from one of the trucks. There was no fire, but the house was obviously in distress. The gable ends had separated, and the windows were blown out.

The Fire Department spent at least three hours shoring up timbers and covering the open roof with a tarpaulin. There is no question in my mind that their work saved the house from total disaster.

The next day, Bill Fantom, the Association's maintenance director, was able to begin stabilizing the structure. The day dawned bright and sunny, and I helped pick up bricks and pieces of brick from the shattered chimney. We stored these in the shed behind the house where they were sorted according to the side of the building they fell on, north or south. I also helped Victoria Hawkins (Curator of Collections) and Bruce Courson (Curator of Interpretation) remove furnishings from the house and load them for transporting to storage in the Peter Foulger Museum. As we worked, we had plenty of time to consider the sad state of one of Nantucket's favorite landmarks and to wonder about its future.

Once again open to the public, the house tells its story to visitors in a different way.

New Interpretation of the Oldest House

By Bruce Courson

n cold January days earlier this year, NHA staff members were trudging through the snow at Old Sturbridge Village and Historic Deerfield in search of ideas that would help present the Oldest House effectively when it reopened to the public in June. All agreed that the interpretation of the site had to match the quality of its physical restoration.

At OSV I found the interpretive philosophy largely unchanged since 1971 when I was a staff interpreter: it is a careful blend of education and entertainment. An example which impressed us all was the Towne House kitchen. As we entered, the interpreter invited us to warm ourselves on benches in front of the fire, something we were all anxious to do. There was no lecture: she chatted informally, yet informatively, as she prepared cheese toast and poured cider for each of us. Reaching into the fire for a poker, she handed it to Peter MacGlashan, our audiovisual librarian, with instructions to dip it in the cups. A sizzling sound accompanied the cloud of steam from the "mulled" cider in each mug, and the odor of caramelized sugar filled the air. While we sipped our hot drinks, the interpreter answered our questions and told us more about the kitchen and the people who had used it. Today, none of us remembers the dates of the pewter vessels in the room; but we will never forget that 1830 kitchen because we not only saw it, we experienced it.

We left Old Sturbridge Village with the conviction that some of their interpretive techniques would work well at NHA properties. But Sturbridge is not Nantucket. It is an artificial museum village, currently interpreted to a specific date, 1830. Nantucket is a real town with recorded history that began in 1659 when the English settled here to raise sheep and farm the land. Within a hundred years the island's economy had shifted to whaling, and a century after that, Nantucket was a leading summer resort. The NHA is fortunate to own historic structures which represent each of these periods, but several, such as the Oldest House, cover hundreds of years. Interpreting large spans of time in a single building without confusing the public is a challenge.

Elizabeth Codding, Assistant Curator of Collections at the NHA, had seen a possible response at the Wells-Thorne House in Historic Deerfield. The town of Deerfield resembles Nantucket in that its history spans many historical periods, and Historic Deerfield does not attempt to focus its interpretation on a particular date. At the Wells-Thorne House the visitor enters through a 1725 kitchen. Moving through successive rooms, one progresses through history and exits the house from an 1850 bedroom. Skeptical at first, our staff found the approach a pleasing and effective vehicle for portraying Deerfield's social history.

Could Historic Deerfield's techniques translate to the Oldest House? To some extent. But with what date should our interpretation end? The last family to live in the Sunset Hill dwelling moved out in 1867 but continued to use it as a hay barn for their cow. We balked at filling the second floor with straw! After consulting the Oldest House Think Tank and the NHA Interpretation Committee, on whom we rely for frank assessments of our proposals, the (Left) The earliest known interpretation of the Oldest House, 1875, may have been arranged by the Turner family. Their efforts were meant to coincide with the United States Centennial.

staff decided to interpret the Oldest House through the lives and occupations of only its first two families — the Coffins, who built the house and farmed the land around it, and the Paddacks who bought the dwelling in 1708. The latter family offers a happy means to depict Nantucket's evolving economy in the eighteenth century because Nathaniel Paddack was a registered weaver but died a mariner in 1756. Furthermore, such an interpretive plan meant the 1800 House and the Hadwen House could continue our presentation of the island's social history through the whaling era, and would (Left) The east room as it appeared in 1960. Although the furnishings are not of a similar period, it is an interesting arrangement. A limited number of seventeenth-century artifacts remains a problem in 1990.

(Below) The same room in 1953. Today it features a working fireplace and dampers or caps on all of the flues. Previously, with the chimney uncovered and poor drainage around the dwelling's exterior, the excessive dampness limited the exhibition of some collections.

finish with "summering" at Greater Light. For at least the next few seasons, however, Nantucket's social history will share the spotlight with the extraordinary history of the building itself. First used as a museum in 1886 and acquired by the NHA in 1923, the Jethro Coffin House has undergone two extensive restorations, each of which uncovered new information about this increasingly rare seventeenth-century structure. Moreover, thanks to the NHA staff's careful photographic documentation, we can offer fascinating insight into the state-of-the-art preservation techniques employed after the lightning strike. On a small panel in each room, we will describe the structural history of the space and show the damage incurred there as well as the solutions applied to restore it. On the second floor, a more extensive exhibit will tie together the two principal restorations, the 1987 catastrophe and the house's architectural history. With the wealth of information at hand, it was an easy exhibit to prepare.

We will develop our long-range interpretive plans for the house during the next few years, and the staff face some important choices. Furnishing the house, for example, is not going to be easy. Although no inventories of Coffin or Paddack furnishings survive, Elizabeth Codding found those of other families which give us an accurate account of household articles used on Nantucket from 1705 to 1725. In one parlor we have installed an eighteenth-century loom and a small bed, typical of how the Paddacks and their nine children used the This sparse arrangement concentrates household articles into the other parlor and lean-to kitchen where we tell the story of the Coffins and their eight children. Our inventory of late-seventeenth century furnishings is only enough for a beginning, and completely furnishing the house will take time and money; but new additions such as a working fireplace, an operating loom and an extra interpreter on site will combine with new interpretive techniques to make the Jethro Coffin House an exciting experience for visitors.

Should the story end here? With a well-restored house and expanded staff, what could be missing? For one thing, a garden for food, then pens for animals, outbuildings to store corn, grain and hay — the list goes on. Life in the seventeenth century depended not only on the shelter inside the house, but on what was produced around the house as well. The recently uncovered cellar, now visible, would have been filled with root vegetables from the Coffin house garden. There may have been a smokehouse for preserving meats, and a pig pen to keep it supplied. Cauldrons for washing were probably in place beside the house, and a well-worn path from the well to the kitchen would have been evident. Features such as these were as common to seventeenth-century houses as a car parked in the driveway of a home Through archeological and docutoday. mentary research we hope to expand on our interpretation of the site in the future, giving our members and visitors a better understanding of what life was like for those first inhabitants of the Oldest House.

For the rest of the summer we will observe visitors as they tour the house and will incorporate their comments and suggestions to make further improvements. We hope our members will also help us. When you visit the house this summer, please note what you enjoy, what you do not like and your ideas for the future. The NHA staff is working hard to make all our historical sites enjoyable as well as educational. We value your observations.

Our Island Ancestors

Compiled by

Lorraine Frantz Edwards

INTRODUCTION

The following family history is rather hastily compiled for presentation in this Christmas gift book.

For several years, my genealogical focus has been on the FRANTZ family. If I were to do a thorough job of research and documentation of our Coffin family--and collateral lines--I would never get back to the Frantz book I feel the Lord called me to publish. Much has already been written on the Bunker, Coffin, Folger, Gardner, Macy, Paddock, and Starbuck families. If you eventually desire to research these ancestors, the sources identified in this material will guide you to additional information.

Much has been written about the intermarriage of families on Nantucket. Someday--with the help of the computer (of course)--I would like to analyze the intricate relationships. (Maybe such a book has already been written.) Sufficient comments are included in this small book to identify many of the "kissing cousins."

Although not elaborated upon in this material, many of our ancestors belonged to the Society of Friends (Quakers). Quite honestly, I do not know a great deal about their religious beliefs. In the future, I would like to familiarize myself with details of their faith. I do know that they were persecuted in early New England for their faith -- as were our Mennonite and German Baptist ancestors.

Taking a stand for Biblical teachings, and believing that Jesus Christ is our Savior, is as unpopular in 1992 as the late 1650s. ("In the summer of 1659, Thomas Macy gave shelter to four of the persecuted sect [Quakers]. Complaint was made against him and he was summoned to appear before the general court...[where] he was fined thirty shillings, and ordered to be admonished by the governor. He paid the fine, accepted the admonition by the governor, but resolved that that should be the last.... He with nine others purchased the island of Nantucket, as early as February 1959.... He did not commit [a] heinous crime [by] sheltering beneath his roof from the inclemency of the weather four persecuted Quakers...[so] he declared his religious convictions in direct opposition to the Puritan clergy, and to the mandates of the court. He left because he could not in justice to the dictates of his own conscience longer submit to the tyranny of the clergy and those in authority." 1) One thing is evident in my genealogical research: Many families "of faith" can be found throughout the pages of history books. Where are the agnostics and atheists?

In closing, let me encourage you to "keep the faith" or seek to know the God and Heavenly Father of our ancestors.

GRANDMA AND THE FAMILY TREE

There's been a change in Grandma, we've noticed her of late She's always reading history or jotting down some date. She's tracing back the family, we'll all have pedigrees Oh, Grandma's got a hobby, she's climbing Family Trees.

Poor Grandpa does the cooking and now, or so he states, That worst of all, he has to wash the cups and dinner plates. Grandma can't be bothered, she's busy as a bee Compiling genealogy -- for the Family Tree.

She has not time to babysit, the curtains are a fright, No buttons left on Grandpa's shirt, the flower bed's a sight. She's given up her club work, the serials on TV, The only thing she does nowadays is climb the Family Tree.

She goes down to the courthouse and studies ancient lore, We know more about our forebears than we ever knew before. The books are old and dusty, they make poor Grandma sneeze, A minor irritation when you're climbing Family Trees.

The mail is all for Grandma, it comes from near and far, Last week she got the proof she needs to join the DAR. A worthwhile avocation, to that we all agree, A monumental project, to climb the Family Tree.

Now some folks came from Scotland, and some from Galway Bay, Some were French as pastry, some German all the way. Some went on West to stake their claim, some stayed near by the sea, Grandma hopes to find them all as she climbs the Family Tree.

She wanders through the graveyard in search of date or name, The rich, the poor, the inbetween, all sleeping there the same. She pauses now and then to rest, fanned by a gentle breeze That blows above the Fathers of all our Family Trees.

There were pioneers and patriots mixed in our kith and kin Who blazed the paths of wilderness and fought through thick and thin. But none more staunch than Grandma, whose eyes light up with glee, Each time she finds a missing branch for the Family Tree. Their skills were wide and varied, from carpenter to cook, And one (Alas!) the record shows was hopelessly a crook. Blacksmith, weaver, farmer, judge, some tutored for a fee, Long lost in time, now all recorded on the Family Tree.

To some it's just a hobby, to Grandma it's much more, She knows the joys and heartaches of those who went before. They loved, they lost, they laughed, they wept, and now for you and me, They live again in spirit, around the Family Tree.

At last she's nearly finished, and we are each exposed, Life will be the same again, this we all supposed! Grandma will cook and sew, serve cookies with our tea, We'll all be fat, just as before that wretched Family Tree.

Sad to relate, the Preacher called and visited for a spell, We talked about the Gospel, and other things as well. The heathen folk, the poor, and then--t'was fate, it had to be, Somehow the conversation turned to Grandma and the Family Tree.

We tried to change the subject, we talked of everything! But then in Grandma's voice we heard that old familiar ring. She told him all about the past, and soon was plain to see, The Preacher, too, was nearly snared by Grandma and the Family Tree.

He never knew his Grandpa, his mother's name was...Clark? He and Grandma talked and talked, outside it grew quite dark. We'd hoped our fears were groundless, but just like some disease, Grandma's become an addict -- she's hooked on Family Trees!

Our souls were filled with sorrow, our hearts sank with dismay, Our ears could scarce believe the words we heard our Grandma say. "It sure is a lucky thing that you have come to me, I know exactly how it's done, I'll climb your Family Tree!"

THE COFFIN COAT OF ARMS

"Heraldry has a language all its own, the significance of which none but careful students who have made it a specialty will pretend to absolute accuracy in its exposition. Briefly stated, it is the science of conventional distinctions impressed on shields or banners, and is both national and personal. The latter treats of bearings belonging to individuals either in their own or hereditary right. The Coffins have always claimed Coat Armour in heriditary right. That branch descended from Nathaniel Coffin, father of Admiral Sir Isaac, inherit the right through the Admiral's grant, and are unquestionably entitled to wear his Coat of Arms, but this differs essentially in its emblazonment from the more ancient ones.

"Authorities upon English heraldry give, as belonging to the he Coffins of Devonshire, a description which, in its combination, is unlike any other family bearings, and consists of Bezants and Cross-Crosslets. While they differ as to order of arrangement and combination, the number of Bezants is never less than three nor more than four, and the Cross-Crosslets vary from five upward to a semee which is an indefine convenient number.

"The Bezants are a roundle representing the ancient gold coin of Byzantium, current in England from the tenth century to the time of Edward III, and was probably introduced into coat armour by the crusaders. The white roundle exhibited upon Admiral Sir Isaac's Arms, is of silver, and is usually called a plate, although there were silver bezants used as coin. The Cross-Crosslets are Crosses crossed on each arm.

"The Crest and Mottoes are of quite modern origin." The Coffin Family, edited by Louis Coffin, p. 80.

"Came to America in 1624. A disposition on file in the Essex Co. Court Papers, V. VII, p. 3, shows that he was born about 1592, but his birthplace and early home are unknown to us. Farmer states he came from Scotland, but he gives no authority for the statement, and nothing has been found to confirm it. The belief held by many that his ancestral home was in Dorsetshire or one of the adjoining counties in England, is much more reasonable, as he sailed from Weymouth, received an appointment from the Dorchester Company to an office of honor and responsibility, and came hither with men who were largely from Dorsetshire or the neighboring county of Somerset." Thomas Gardner, Planter, and Some of His Descendants, compiled and arranged by Frank A. Gardner, M.D., (Salem, MA: Essex Institute, 1907), pp. 3-4.

 - iv. John Gardner. Born, 1625, in England². Died, 6 May 1706². He married Priscilla Grafton, 20 Feb 1652/3².

"John Gardiner [sic] -- was buried in the old burial ground on 'Forefather's Hill', near the present pumping station. The original gravestone is still in existance, but is kept at present in the old Coffin house (horseshoe house). A substantial granite stone stands in it's place at the grave, upon which is inscribed the following: 'Here lyes ye body of John Gardner Esq. aged 82 who died May 1706.' This stone erected in 1881 replaces one removed for preservation, which marked this spot for 175 years." Thomas Gardner, Planter, by Frank A. Gardner, (Salem, MA: Essex Institute, 1907), p. 70.

"Helen Chase in her chronology of the Jethro Coffin house shows that in August 1881 the brothers Tristram and O. Vincent Coffin purchased the house. In 1883 she has:

'John Gardner's gravestone was rescued for preservation from the ancient burial ground on the hill east of Maxcy's Pond, brought to the Jethro Coffin House, and placed in the Mary Gardner chamber. On the slate surface was recorded:

Here lies ye body of John Gardner who was born in ye year 1624 and died A.D. 1706, aged 82.

He married, first, Jane/Elizabeth Godfrey (17), 15 Sep 165813.

He married¹⁴, second, Elizabeth¹⁴. Children:

31 i. John⁴ Swain.

17. Jane/Elizabeth³ Godfrey. Born, 6 Mar 1629/0 (?), in Cardington, Bedfordshire, England¹⁵. Died, 31 Oct 1662, in /on Nantucket Is, MA¹⁶. Birth(2): circa 1624 (?), in Topsfield, Essex Co., MA². Daughter of Thomas Godfrey and Elizabeth Mead?

She married, first, George Bunker (18).

She married, second, Richard Swain (16).

18. George³ Bunker. Born, 1620, in England¹⁶. Died, 26 May 1658, in Topsfield, Essex Co., MA^{16} .

"He married 5/5/1644 Maulden, Bedfordshire, England, Elizabeth Godfrey (Maulden Vital Record). As American records clearly prove his widow's name was Jane, perhaps the English record is incorrect, or, possibly her name was Elizabeth Jane or Jane Elizabeth Godfrey. There is of course the further possibility that he married (1) Elizabeth Godfrey and (2) Jane Godfrey. It is interesting to note that the first child was named Elizabeth, and son William is officially recorded in Bedfordshire record as son of William and Elizabeth.

"He came to America @ 1650, first to Ipswich, Mass. By 1652 they had removed to Topsfield, Mass., where he was made a freeman 17:2:1655 before Right Worpll [sic] John Endicott (Essex County Probate Records & Files at Essex Institute, Salem, Mass. 1:380).

"The wife of George Bunker was witness in court at Ipswich, Mass., in March 1656/7, and in March 1657 at Ipswich Court George Bunker was allowed 2s6d for his wife's witness fees (Essex County Probate Records & Files at Essex Institute, Salem, Mass, 1:423 and 2:36).

"He died 26 May 1658, drowned while crossing a stream with his team at Topsfield. Widow Jane was appointed admrx 29 June 1658; estate was divided among widow, son William age 10, and daughters Elizabeth age 12, Mary age 6, Ann age 4, Martha age 1-1/2 years. (Probate Records of Essex County, Mass., Records & Files of Quarterly Court of Essex County, Mass. at Salem 2:98). The inventory of Estate of 'George Bunker of Topsfield, lately deceased' was taken 29:3:1658.

"Widow Jane m. (2) 15 Sept 1658 Richard Swain of Hampton; they sold Topsfield land in 1660 (Gen. Dict. Me. & N.H. 669) and moved to Nantucket, Mass., where he as one of ten original proprietors was deeded land in 1659. She died 31 Oct 1662 Nantucket, the first death recorded there." Bunker Genealogy, The Charlestown, Mass. and Nantucket, Mass. Branches, Vol. 2, by Edward C. Moran, Jr., p. 25.

He married Jane/Elizabeth Godfrey (17), 5 May 1644, in Maulden, Bedfordshire, England¹⁷. Marriage(2): 1645 (?)². Children:

- 36 i. Elizabeth⁴ Bunker.
- 37 ii. William Bunker.
- 38 iii. Mary Bunker.
 - iv. Ann Bunker¹⁸. Born, 1654, in Topsfield, Essex Co., MA¹⁹. Died, 1698, in /on Nantucket Is, MA²⁰. She married²¹ Joseph Coleman, son of Thomas Coleman and Susanna, 1672²⁰.
- 39 v. Martha Bunker.
- 19. Dorothy³ ?Jones/?Thatcher (George, 5). Born, circa 1603, in Dinder, Somerset, England². Died, 19 Mar 1677/8 (?), in Yarmouth, Barnstable Co., MA².

She married²² Richard Sears (20).

20. Richard³ Sears (John Bourchier, 7). Born, circa 1590 (?), in England²³. Died, 26 Aug 1676, in Yarmouth, Barnstable Co., MA^{23} . Burial: 26 Aug 1676, in Yarmouth, Barnstable Co., MA^{23} .

He married²² Dorothy ?Jones/?Thatcher (19), 1632². Children:

- i. Knyvet⁴ Sears. Born, 1635, in Marblehead, Essex Co., MA².
- 40 ii. Paul Sears.
- 41 iii. Silas Sears.
- 42 iv. Deborah Sears.
- 21. Mary³ Holmes (Peter, $1)^{24}$.

She married Robert Paddock (22).

22. Robert³ Paddock. Born, 16 Sep 1584, in Stephenstown, Dublin, Ireland²⁴. Died, 25 Jul 1650, in Plymouth, Plymouth Co., MA²⁴.

Compiler [Lorraine Edwards] comment: The following is copied almost exactly from The Paddock Genealogy, Descendants of Robert Paddock of Plymouth Colony, Blacksmith and Constable 1646, by Robert Joseph Curfman, (Fort Collins, Colo: published by the author, 1977), pp. 21, 23-26. (Lorraine made some formatting changes.)

"Robert Paddock, Blacksmith, Barony of Ardee, County Louth, Ireland, and from all evidences the emigrant Robert Paddock, Blacksmith of Plymouth Colony, Massachusetts: son John and Jane (Jennings) Paddock, named Jean and Jeannette (Jennin) Paddoc: b. Stephenstown, Balrothery Parish, County Dublin, Ireland 16 Sep. 1584 (TPF 89,90): according to the Plymouth Colony Records for 1650, 'Robert Padduk Died the 25t of July' (VR 11), and the Paddock Manuscript stated he was then 'ag. not over 67' (MSPdk); he m. (1) bef. 3 Apr. 1603 Mary Ball, b. 1582, d. Sep. 1627, bd. Killany, County Louth, Ire. 14 Sep. 1627; da. Zachery and Margaret Ball of Stephenstown (TPF 21-2); m. (2) 12 Oct. 1630 Mary Holmes, da. Peter Holmes and Elizabeth Ireland, da. Lawrence Ireland, a 'recussant' and weaver of Killany, County Louth, Ireland (TPF 92-3); her brother 'Francis Holmes, son of Peter, emigrated to Stamford, Conn. 1648, and made his will 1671' (TPF 93).

1593: His uncle Zachariah Paddock removed from Stephenstown, County Dublin, to a 'messuage' in Ardee, County Louth, leased from Matthew Ball.

1607, 3 Apr: Robert was bequeathed 'the blacksmith-shop' in the inventory of his mother 'Jane Paddock' made Killany 3 Apr. 1607 apparently the day his father John Paddock died. He was a blacksmith as were his father John Paddock, and in France, his uncle Jacques Paddoc and cousin Paul Paddoc of Le Cateau.

1631-4 (about): Robert could have emigrated about this period, with his second wife Mary, to Plymouth Colony, Massachusetts, where he was a blacksmith and once a constable. Of the children of Robert and Mary Paddock: Elizabeth (Paddock) Palmer could have been named after Elizabeth (Ireland) Holmes, mother of Mary (Holmes) Paddock; Zachariah could have been named after Zachariah Paddock, uncle of Robert (or even also in memory of Zachery Ball, the first father-in-law of Robert); and John, after John Paddock, father of Robert. Thus these sons would have been named after those men who were closest to Robert Paddock in Ireland.

"The fact that Robert was mentioned twice again in wills made in France 14 Aug. 1641 and 3 Sep. 1642 would in no way disprove that he had emigrated to Plymouth Colony about ten years earlier. The first was the will of his uncle Jacques Paddock, Blacksmith of Le Cateau, formerly Sieur de Bapaume 1589, and the second, that of his aunt Marie (Bloedel) Paddoc, widow of Jacques. Both concerned depts owed to the heirs of John Paddock and his brother Zachariah Paddock, both deceased.

"ROBERT PADDOCK

Plymouth and Duxbury,

Plymouth Colony, Cape Cod, Massachussetts, New England,

Blacksmith and Constable of Plymouth 1646,

Patriarch of the Paddock Family in America, was born 1583-4, as claimed according to American records. [He has also been given as born in Stephenstown, Balrothery Parish, County Dublin, Ireland, 16 September 1584, younger son of John Paddock, Blacksmith of Stephenstown and later of Tullygovan near Killany, Barony of Ardee, County Louth, Ireland, by his wife Jane Jennings or Jenning, claimed to have been named originally Jeannette Jennin or Jeannin, daughter of Francois and Louise (Moron) Jennin of Croisilles, Pas de Calais, France (TPF 81, 87-9,90).] Robert Paddock died intestate at Plymouth 25 July 1650, entered in the Plymouth Colony Records: '1650 ... Robert Padduk Died the 25t of July' (MD 16:235), and was according to the Paddock Manuscript 'ag. not over 67' (MSPdk/TPF 91):... [Followed by exact photo image; p. 23.] Though he made no will, his widow Mary confirmed in November 1650 that on his death bed Robert had granted the guardianship of his son John to Captain Thomas Willett, who was later Mayor of New York 1664-7 (NEHGR 61:159):

In 1650, November:

'Whereas Robert Padduck of Plym: lately deceased did on his death bed give and dispose his sonne John Padduck aged about five years unto Captaine Tho: Willet to bee att his desposing and under his guidance as his own child: These presents doe therefore wittness That Mary Padduck the wife of said Robert Padduck doth condesend unto and allow of the said acte of her Said husband in the disposing of her Said sonne John to Captain Willet as aforesaid: In Witness of the promises shee the Said Mary hath hereunto sett her hand and given way to have this present said writing entered upon publick Record.

Mary Padducks Mark

Witness hereunto Nathaniel Morton Clarke'

(MSPdk)

"Robert had married his wife MARY apparently by 1630, but no reference to their marriage or mention of her maiden surname or of her death has been found in the Plymouth Colony Records. [She has been given as Mary HOLMES, whom Robert is said to have married as his second wife in Ireland 12 Oct 1630, daughter of Peter Holmes and Elizabeth Ireland, daughter of Lawrence Ireland, a weaver of Killany (TPF 92-3). Mary was given as sister of Francis Holmes who settled in Stamford, Connecticut, 1648 and who made his will in 1671 (TPF 93).]

"Robert was said to have married as his first wife Mary Ball, given as born 1582 and buried in Killany 14 September 1627, daughter of Zachery and Margaret Ball of Stephenstown 9TPF 91-2).

"On 3 December 1650 Mary Paddock of Plymouth, Widow, sold to Stephen Wood of Plymouth, Smith, for L 9. 10 s. 'her house, garden plot, and shop situated in Plymouth aforesaid, in the South Street' and about '3 acres of upland in the Newfield' bounded by the lands of Richard Sparrow and John Thompson. It was agreed she could dwell in the house until March the following year when payment was due. (MSPdk/AF 189)

"Richard Sparrow conveyed his land adjoining this Paddock lot, regarding which there was a memorandum 22 November 1656 (MD 10:215):

'That Richard Sparrow of the Towne of Eastham in Jurisdiction of Plymouth in New England Doth acknowlidge ... hee hath ... sold unto ... Gorge Bonum ... his house and garden plott Scittuat in Plymouth aforsaid on the south street of the said towne ... with six acres of upland in the Newfeild ... lying betwixt the land of John Wood ... and the land of Robert Paddocke.'

"It is now believed that it was Mary Paddock the Widow who married (2) Plymouth

24 March 1651 Thomas Roberts of Duxbury, Massachusetts, rather than her daughter Mary (HbCb). (MD 16:235/NYGBR 26:189/GDNE 3:328) A purchase of land adjoining property formerly owned by Thomas Roberts which 'writen ded was oned before ... John Freeman Asist This 20: 12m 1667' (MD 21:160-1), to which date there is an editorial footnote: 'As the twelfth month, in Old Style dating, was February, the date of the acknowledgement was 20 February, 1667/8.' (John Freeman, Assistant to the Governor, was a maternal ancestor of many Paddock descendants of later generations.):

'Know that I Richard Higgens of Easham in the Government of New Plimourth in New England in America Taylor doe by these prsents ... exchange a parcell of upland containing twenty acres... to the Easterly bound tree of the land that was formerly Thomas Roberts: from thence downe to youngs cove as the said Thomas Roberts range runnes these bounds in both procells containing twenty acrs be it more or lesse unto the said Jonathan Sparrow of the Towne of Easham in the Government of New Plimouth in New England Husbandman.'

"Robert (as claimed) inherited the blacksmith shop of his father in Killany, Barony of Ardee, County Louth, Ireland, in the will of his mother made at Killand 15 May 1607:

'The Inwarie of the goods of the said Jane Paddock, widow of John Paddock, deceased, late of Killany ... to my son Robert Paddock the blacksmith shop, one cow, five yardes of broad cloathes and to him my movable personalty and to his wife, Mary Paddock, born Ball my blake cloak' (TPF: 87-8: Armagh reg. bay 4, tray 1, CPH, Wheeler MS).

"The name of the ship and the year of the emigration of Robert Paddock remains unknown. He may well have been in Plymouth by 1632, there having been two of his children entered in the Plymouth Colony Records born before 1636 (MD 17:185).

In 1638, June 4th:

'At a Court of Assistancts ... in ye fourteenth yeare of the Raigne of O[u]r souraigne Lord Charles ... King Defender of the Fayth ... Bradford Govn. William Corvanell of Duxborrow has acknowledgeth ... to be levied ... for the felonious breaking of the house of Robte Paddock and taking out of a chest therein XII/s VII/d and ... Robte Paddock of Duxborro, Smyth ... shall frame ... one bill of indictm at the next Genall Court ... against within Corvanell of the suspicion of breaking of his house' (PCR/TPC/MSPdk).

"The Paddock Manuscript states that the above case was 'Released' and that an entry appeared at the bottom of the same page showing that Robert Paddock was granted 'the garden place next to Thomas Willett wch William Paddy should have had, this grant is remitted to John Groomes' (PCR/TPCix/MSPdk). The court that made this grant included among others Governor William Bradford (1590-1657), Captain Miles Standish (ca. 1584-1656), John Alden and Edward Winslow (1595-1655), previously and later governor of the colony (TPC ix).

Also in 1638: The inventory of the estate of William Palmer, Senior, filed 1638, showed an indebtedness to Robert Paddock of 9 d. for a pair of shoes and 'to goodwife padock for ye child L 1. 5 s. 2 d.' (MD 2:148,152). Robert requested an accounting of this 20 October 1646. Also in 1638: 'Goodwife Paddock' received money from the estate of Job Cole 'for the child' (HbCb).

In 1641, December 31st:

'Robte Paddock is granted foure acres of upland where hee desired about Kluchness dingle' (PCR 2:36/Tcp ix).

"The above place is interpreted also 'Kenelmas Dingle' (HDT 1-23-37) and 'Kanlin's Dingle' (MSPdk/HbCb).

In 1642, November 1st:

He served as a juryman in the tresspass case of Robert Morris vs. John Hassell (HbCb).

In 1643, February 27th: The inventory of 'mr John Atwood lately Deceased' 'of New Plymouth gent' showed 'Debts oweing by the Testator ... To Robte Paddock 01.00.00' (MD 5:158-9).

In 1643, August: He was listed among those able to bear arms and was entered on the roster of non-commissioned officers and privates in the Plymouth Company (PCL 76). This company was under the command of the noted Capt. Miles Standish (ca. 1584-1656), military defender of New Plymouth, who lived part of his lifetime at Duxbury as did Robert Paddock himself whose services as blacksmith were no doubt valuable to the Plymouth Company as well as to farmers and builders, for there were few horses in early Plymouth Colony. (Duxbury was a part of Plymouth Colony as well as the settlement called Plymouth.)

Also in 1643: One peck of corn was levied against Robert Paddock for the 'cow keep' and he contributed 6 d. for drumheads (PITR 13,14).

In 1646, June 2nd: He was appointed Constable of the Town of Plymouth 'by an order of the General Court, Bradford Gov.' (PCR 2:101/PCL 48/TPC ix/AF 189).

In 1646, October 20th:

'Att the third session of the General Court begun the first tewsday in June holden the 20th of October in ye twenty secondth years of the raigne Whereas Robte Paddock complains to this Court for and desires to have an account of what is due unto him by the last will and testemt of Wm Palmer deceased, the Court desires Mr Thomas Prence either to come in and give an account or send it unto the Govnor yt so what is due unto ye said Paddock may be satisfied unto him according to ye tenor of ye said will as soone as wth conveniency he may and that before this winter yf he canne' (PCR 2:109/TPC ix/MSPdk)

In 1648, February: At a town meeting he was among those granted an acre apiece lying above Mr. Atwood's property and was also entailed in 'The Grandinquest' of 1648 (MSPdk).

In 1648, June 4th:

'Robert Paddock of Plymouth and William Clark of Duxbury were both presented June the 4th for being drunk and both cleared by the paiment of their 'fine' (MSPdk).

"William Clark, with whom Robert overimbibed, may have been a relative of Nathanial Morton Clarke who witnessed the confirmation of Mary Paddock, widow, 1650, and the latter likely a relative of Nathaniel Morton, one of the historians of Plymouth Colony.

"After his death in 1650 'some of the Children of Robert Paddocks Deceased' were entered in the Plymouth Colony Vital Records (MD 17:185):

'The Register of the age of some of the Children of Robert Paddocke Deceased Imprimis William Palmer the son in Law of the said Robert Paddocks; was borne the 27th of June 1634

Zacariah Paddocke the son of Robert Paddocke was borne the 20th of march 1636

Mary the Daughter of Robert Paddocke was borne the tenth of March 1638 Allis the Daughter of Robert Paddocke was borne the 7th of March 1640 John the son of Robert Paddocke was borne the first of Aprill 1643 there are two other that are before registered in this booke' (MD 17:185)

"Thus the births of Zachariah, Mary, Alice and John were recorded in the Plymouth Colony Records, and indirectly Elizabeth, not named but implied by reference to her husband William Palmer 'the son in law of said Robert Paddocke' (MD 17:185).

"Robert, Jr. and Elizabeth were likely the 'two other that are before registered in this booke' but the accidental omission of Susanna from this list is not accounted for. (The original record of Plymouth births does not extend earlier than 1648, as it now stands. The first few pages are badly worn and there are pages missing.) Some accounts included a potential son George, probably due to an error in an early article on the Paddock family (NEHGR 12:220) wherein this supposed son was said to have married Sarah Ricard in 1647. The original record reads: 'Georg Pidcock & Sarah Ricard marryed the XVIth may 1640 Plymouth' (MD 13:85)." To recap: Foregoing, with all the references, from The Paddock Genealogy, Descendants of Robert Paddock of Plymouth Colony, Blacksmith and Constable 1646, by Robert Joseph Curfman, (Fort Collins, Colo: published by the author, 1977), pp. 21, 23-26.

He married 24 , first, Mary Ball. Born, 1582^{24} . Buried, 14 Sep 1627, in Killany, County Louth, Ireland 24 . Daughter of Zachery and Margaret Ball of Stephenstown.

He married, second, Mary Holmes (21), 12 Oct 1630, in $Ireland^{24}$. Children:

i. Robert 4 Paddock. Born, circa 1632, in Plymouth, Plymouth Co.,

- MA²⁵. Birth(2): circa 1634 (?)². "Robert, Jr., born about 1632-4. Lived at one time at Dartmouth, Massachusetts (NEHGR 12:220). His birthdate sometimes given just '1634' but unsubstantiated, probably due to a misinterpretation of the incomplete entry of the children in the Plymouth Colony Records which begins with 'the son in law' born 1634. 'About 1632' (FPdkHA) is reasonable. There appear to be no known records of his death or of a possible marriage. Only his name has been perpetuated through private family records." The Paddock Genealogy, Descendants of Robert Paddock of Plymouth Colony, Blacksmith and Constable 1646, by Robert Joseph Curfman, (Fort Collins, Colo., published by the author, 1977), p. 26.
- ii. Elizabeth Paddock. Born, 27 Jun 1634, in Plymouth, Plymouth Co., MA²⁶. She married²⁵ William Palmer Jr. "Elizabeth, born about 1634-5; married William Palmer, Jr., born 27 June 1634 (MD 17:185). William has been found given as son of William and Elizabeth (Hodgkins) Palmer (TPC) and this latter William identified as a Lieutenant and a Representative of Yarmouth, Massachusetts (GDNE/TPC ix). Members of this Palmer family were said to have lived at one time at Dartmouth, Massachusetts, and to have removed to Newton, Long Island, New York 1656 (GDNE/TPC ix)." The Paddock Genealogy, Descendants of Robert Paddock of Plymouth Colony, Blacksmith and Constable 1646, by Robert Joseph Curfman, (Fort Collins, Colo.: published by the author, 1977), p. 26.
- 43 iii. Zachariah Paddock.
 - iv. Mary Paddock. Born, 10 Mar 1637/8, in Plymouth, Plymouth Co., MA²⁷. She married Thomas Roberts²⁵, 24 Mar 1650/1, in Duxbury, MA²⁵. Marriage(2): 24 Mar 1656/7 (?)². "Mary, born 10 March 1638. Sometimes given as the Mary Paddock who married 24 March 1651 Thomas Roberts of Duxbury, Massachusetts (GDNE 3:328/NYGBR 26:189) but later considered to have been 'too young' (though youthful marriages have occured) and that it was rather her mother who married him as her second husband (HbCb). There appear to be also other factors entailed in this later conclusion. No record of her death or of any children by her have been given by the earlier Paddock compilers." The Paddock Genealogy, p. 26.
- v. Alice Paddock.
 - vi. John Paddock. Born, 1 Apr 1643, in Plymouth, Plymouth Co., MA²⁸. Died, 18 Feb 1717/8². He married² Anne Jones, 21 Dec 1673, in Swansea, Bristol Co., MA²⁹.
- 45 vii. Susannah Paddock.
- 23. Catherine /Katharine³ Reynolds³⁰, daughter of William Reynolds and Esther Ruth/Roth. Born, circa 1609 (?), in Wales². Died, circa 1658 (?), in Dover, Strafford Co., NH². Birth(2): circa 1584 (?)².

She married³¹, first, Edward Starbuck (24).

She married², second, Joseph Austin.

24. Edward³ Starbuck. Born, 16 Feb 1603/4, in Leicester, England³¹. Died, 4 Feb 1689/0, in /on Nantucket Is, MA³². Death(2): 12 Apr 1690 (?)³³. Son of Edward Starbuck.

"Starbuck is a fascinating name--one that seems 'made up' like an actor's.... The origin of 'Starbuck' is obscure and debatable. Some sources claim it comes from an old Norse word meaning 'Great Man.' Others say it derives from Starbeck, a swampy place in Nottinghamshire, England, where a lot of Starbucks live today. In either case, there is a strong possibility that a certain Richard Johnson adopted the name Starbuck in the 14th century in order to distinguish himself from the crowd of other R. J.'s...." Starbucks All, 1635-1985, A Biographic-Genealogical Dictionary, by James Carlton Starbuck, p. 1.

"Edward was the first Starbuck to settle in what is now the U.S. He came from Leicestershire, England in 1635 (fifteen years after the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth Rock). He, his wife, and possibly one or two of his children (birthdates undetermined) settled in the area now known as Dover, New Hampshire. There is apparently no information available on the family's first four years there, but from 1640 on, Edward's name appears in several official documents. The first is a petition by 25 New Hampshire residents to the governor of Massachusetts begging him not to take over control of their colony, but Massachusetts did so anyway in 1641 and kept jurisdiction until 1680. In 1641, Edward sued Hansard Knollys for slander but the details and outcome have been lost or never recorded. Twice he was elected deputy (representative) to the Massachusetts General Court (legislature)--1643 and 1646 (he was fined for being absent for three weeks during the first session). Edward and two others were appointed 'wearesmen' or official river fishermen for Dover for life and were required to supply the town and its church from their catches. In 1647 he was given permission to erect a sawmill and went into the lumber business with Richard Waldron. For the 'great misdemeanor of professing Anabaptism' Edward was heavily fined. There was no separation of church and state then, and the Puritans who ran the colony were intolerant of people like the Anabaptists who refused to baptize children and insisted on the baptism of adults instead. In 1653, Edward sold half his timber and water rights to his son-in-law, Peter Coffin. Edward served on a six-man committee to settle a boundary dispute between Dover and Kittery (now part of Maine) in 1654. He was evidently quite argumentative about his religious beliefs for the Congregational minister swore out a peace bond against him in 1658. Edward's last official duty in Dover was serving on a coroner's jury that investigated the accidental death of a man on November 11, 1659. Soon after that, Edward at the age of 55 went on an exploring trip and met Thomas Macy, James Coffin, and Isaac Coleman. Together they set off in an open boat for Nantucket (Indian for 'far-away-land'), an island which lies eighteen miles south of Cape Cod, Massachusetts and takes several hours to reach by motor-powered ferry today. Their remarkable journey has been immortalized by John Greenleaf Whittier in his narrative poem, 'The Exiles,' (which mentions Macy but not Starbuck). They spent the winter there, and in the spring Edward went back to Dover to fetch his and ten other families. His two married daughters, Abigail (Starbuck) Coffin and Sarah (Starbuck) Austin remained in New Hampshire at least for the time being. Thus began the two-and-a-half centuries-long residence of Starbucks on the island that became after Edward's demise a leading whaling base until kerosene lamps replaced whale-oil ones in the 1850s. Edward built a house at the head of Hummock Pond. A deed of land to him from the Indians is the oldest original document in existence. In 1669, he and Peter Coffin were appointed by the town meeting 'to manage the government among the Indians.' Four years later Edward was chosen one of the town's five selectmen (overseers). He died April 12, 1690 (as recorded in vol. V of Vital Records of Nantucket Massachusetts in the Year 1850.)" He married³¹ Catherine /Katharine Reynolds (23). Children:

i. Sarah³ Starbuck³⁴. Born, circa 1630 (?), in Dover, Strafford Co., NH². She married³⁵, first, Joseph Austin (28), 1659². She married, second, Humphrey Varney³⁵, 2 Mar 1663/4, in Dover, Strafford Co., NH³⁶.

David P. Coffin writes, in the Coffin Family Newsletter, Vol. III, No. 10, Aug. 1986, p. 11:

"Donna Macy Sand... recently provided data which clarifies the conflicting data about Sarah. Sarah Starbuck, daughter of Edward and Katherine (Reynolds) Starbuck and mother of Deborah Austin who married Lt. John Coffin has been said to have married (1) William Story, (2) Joseph Austin and (3) Humphrey Varney. There are several other versions with conflicting dates. If she first married Story, the dates would make it seem impossible for Deborah Austin to be daughter of Sarah! Was she then daughter of Joseph Austin's first wife? Sarah Starbuck married (1) Joseph Austin and (2) Humphrey Varney.

"It seems that Samuel Austin, not Joseph, married the widow of William Story. Main Province and Court Records, Maine Historical Society, 1931, pp. 109-10. See also, Noyes, Genealogical Dictionary of Maine and New Hampshire, pp. 69, 656-7, 665-6 and 703.

"Walter Charles Bernard... in his Bernard and Allied Families, had this correct. We find in his book many fewer errors and more detail than in most similar genealogies. He also provides a list of sources for each family, although not specific cites."

- ii. Dorcas Starbuck³⁷. Born, circa 1631 (?), in Dover, Strafford Co., NH². Died, Oct 1696, in /on Nantucket Is, MA². She married³⁸ William Gayer³⁹.
- iii. Nathaniel Starbuck.
- iv. Abigail Starbuck⁴⁰. Born, circa 1641 (?), in Dover, Norfolk Co., MA². She married⁴¹ Peter Coffin (58), before 1660².
 - v. Esther Starbuck³⁷. Born, circa 1644 (?), in Dover, Strafford

Co., NH². She married⁴², first, Humphrey Varney³⁵, before 1664. She married², second, William Furber. Compiler question: Did she marry 1) William Furber, and 2) Humphrey Varney? Perhaps William died shortly after their marriage and she died shortly after her marriage to Humphrey Varney. Her sister, Sarah, reportedly married Humphry Varney on 2 Mar 1664, after the death of Joseph Austin.

- vi. Shuak/Susanna/ Shuah Starbuck¹⁴. Born, 1648, in /on Nantucket Is, MA². She married², first, James Heard. She married², second, Richard Otis.
- vii. Jethro Starbuck¹⁴. Born, 1651, in Dover, Strafford Co., NH². Died, 27 May 1663⁴². "Was killed May 27, 1663, at the age of twelve years by the overturning of a cart." The History of Nantucket County, Island, and Town, Including Genealogies of First Settlers," by Alexander Starbuck, p. 802. "...Jethro was driving a cart when some fluke action by the horse caused the cart to overturn on him, crushing his so severely that he died." Mary Coffin Starbuck and the Early History of Nantucket, by Roland L. Warren, p. 107.

"At the time of Jethro's death, his older sister Abigail, married to Peter Coffin, was pregnant again, and in September she delivered a health boy. When they had learned of young Jethro's death, they determined to name this child after him, if it was a boy. And so their new baby boy was named Jethro, after the young uncle Jethro Starbuck whom he would never know." Ibid, p. 108.

27. Richard³ Gardner (Thomas, 10). Born, circa 1616 (?), in England². Died, 23 Mar 1687/8 (?), in /on Nantucket Is, MA⁴⁶. Birth(2): circa 1622 (?), in ?Salem, Essex Co., MA². Death(2): 23 Jan 1687/8 (?)⁴⁷.

"W.C. Folger thought that Richard might have had a wife before Sarah, as the following quotation from his notes will show: 'If the date of the marriage of Richard Gardner and Sarah Shattuck in 1652 as given by the late Lemuel Shattuck, Esq., be correct; then I am of the opinion that Richard must have had a former wife, as Richard Jr., was born Oct. 23d, 1653, and if Joseph was born at a later period he would have been too young to have been married early in 1670. Indeed the late B. Franklin Folger and other high authorities have stated Joseph Gardner to have been the oldest son of Richard Gardner Sen'r.'

"Richard Gardner died 1st mo., 23d, 1688. The following reference is made in the records concerning the settlement of his estate: 'Letters of administration on the estate of Mr. Richard Gardner Senior deceased are granted unto Sarah Gardner, Relict of Sd. Gardner, who bindeth herself to perform the trust of an administratrix, and to barre the court harmless according to law.' (Dated March 18, 1688-9.)" "Was Tristram Coffin of the Gentry" is a very interesting article in the Coffin Family Newsletter, Vol. III, No. 12, Nov. 1987, pp. 7-9.

"Tristram Coffin son of Peter and Johan or Johanna born in Brixton Parish, town of Plymouth, Devonshire, England was there baptized March 11, 1610 (on American Court entry also gives his age showing birth in 1609). Died 10.2.1681. He was elected 1640 as a warden in Brixton Parish, but leased his farm at Butlers (Butlass) for five hundred years on November 6, 1640 and came to New England in 1642, probable in the HECTOR but possible in the MARGARET CLEMENT or the JOB CLEMENT all owned by Robert Clement, who signed the Indian Deed to Haverhill with Tristram Coffin November 15, 1642. Tristram, the eldest child, brought with him his mother, his two sisters, who were married in America, Eunice to William Butler and Mary to Alexander Adams... Tristram first settled in Haverhill, removed to Newbury in 1648, thence to Salisbury in 1654 and thence in 1680 [sic] to Nantucket, of which Island he was one of the original proprietors." The Coffin Family, edited by Louis Coffin, (Nantucket, MA: Nantucket Historical Association, 1962), p. 92.

Compiler comment: More accurately, Tristram Coffin moved to Nantucket before 1665. "Tristram Coffyn was thirty-seven years of age upon his removal to America, and fifty-five years of age at the time of his removal to Nantucket, having spent eighteen years in America previous to his coming to the island to reside." The Coffin Family, edited by Louis Coffin, p. 47. Same author, same book, page 48, says: "Tristram, senior, did not remove his entire family until 1662." Starbucks All, by James Carlton Starbuck, p. 376, indicates that Tristram's daughter, Mary (and Nathaniel Starbuck), was first marriage on Nantucket. The History of Nantucket County, Island, and Town, Including Genealogies of First Settlers, by Alexander Starbuck, pp. 802, 803, states that they were married in 1662.

He married Dionis Stevens (29), circa 1630, in England⁵⁸. Children:

"William was the first Bunker male to actually live, work and die on Nantucket. History records that William raised sheep in addition to his other means of livelihood. The family rapidly expanded within three generations to forty men and women, some of whom died in infancy, but eighteen males lived to produce the fifth generation. We know more about the early Nantucket Bunkers for several reasons—the island and community were small and easily recorded; the whaling industry was respected and well-known; the Quakers kept excellent records; the town records have been preserved; and many amateur and professional historians have been active on Nantucket." Bunker Family History, by Henry L. Bunker, p. 82.

42. Deborah⁴ Sears (Richard, 20). Born, Sep 1639, in Yarmouth, Barnstable Co., MA². Died, 17 Aug 1732, in Yarmouth, Barnstable Co., MA².

She married Zachariah Paddock (43).

43. Zachariah⁴ Paddock (Robert, 22). Born, 20 Mar 1635/6, in Plymouth, Plymouth Co., MA⁸⁹. Died, 1 May 1727, in Yarmouth, Barnstable Co., MA²³.

"Zachariah was born Plymouth, Massachusetts 20 March 1636 (PCR), died Yarmouth (Dennis), Massachusetts 1 May 1727 aged 91, however his obituary stated he was born 'in the beginning of the Year 1640' and died 'in the 88th Year of his Age' having 'retained his Reason to an uncommon degree, until his last Sickness, which lasted but a few Days.' His obituary as it appeared in the New England Weekly Journal, Boston 5 June 1727, page 4, follows." (And displayed in The Paddock Genealogy, Descendants of Robert Paddock of Plymouth Colony, Blacksmith and Constable 1646. by Robert Joseph Curfman, (Fort Collins, Colo., 1977: published by the author, 1977), p. 27.)

"He was probably buried in the Ancient Paddock Cemetery at East Dennis, Massachusetts 'in the peaceful field off King's Highway' (GrdnADG). 'It is very probable that Zachariah... was buried in this cemetery... but there is not any tombstone there' (PdkCm/TPC).

"He married Yarmouth 1659 Deborah Sears, born Yarmouth, September 1639 (said to have been probably the first to be born there after its settlement in 1639). She died Yarmouth 17 August 1732 aged 92 'about one mo. of 93 yrs.' (MSPdk), and was daughter of Richard and Dorothy (Jones) Sears. (MD 3:247,17:185/Vymth/GDNE 3:328,4:46/NEHGR 8:251/sWFTyd 105,108,124,139,236/aF 190/NEWJ/SrsGn 32,37/CCFrm/MSPdk/AI 18:448/HbCb/CCS 2:67-8/TPC/ASLC)

"Resided, East Precinct, Yarmouth, now Dennis, Cape Cod, Barnstable County, Massachusetts on land given to his wife by her father at the time of her marriage. In 1666 he built a house at Yarmouth (Dennis), the oldest extant house built by a Paddock, now much renovated and moved to near Bass River, South Yarmouth, and recently owned by Mrs. Richardson nee Howes and Mrs. Maxwell Barus. A picture of it follows." (A picture appears in The Paddock Genealogy, p. 28.)

"Zachary Paddock and his wife were mentioned in the will of her father 10 March 1667 (TPF 100). He served on a coroner's jury to investigate the death of a child of Nicholas Nickerson 24 October 1667 (HbCb). Assessed for King Phillip's War, Yarmouth 1676 (SwftYD 105). Freeman, Yarmouth 1678 (SwftYD 108). Taxed 1678 'toward the charge of the late war L 3. 7 s. 6 d.' Granted 50 acres at Seaconnet, part of Tatamanuck's land 7 July 1680 and later, same year, on the grand jury. Appoined with Major Thatcher 'to join the Selectmen to run a line' between Yarmouth and Harwich (Brewster) 1697. Granted 23 shares, division of common land, Yarmouth 1712 (SwftYD 124). Deputy (Representative), General Court at Plymouth 8 July 1706, 1707-8. On the seating committee of the new meeting house 1717 'an important office in early pilgrm times'--Quakers were exempt from charge and those desiring pews had to build them at their own expense. His widow was admitted to the Second Church from the First Church, Yarmouth 6 August 1727.

"Of the sons: Ichabod, Joseph and Nathaniel removed to Nantucket Island, where the name often appeared PADDACK--Ichabod, however, did not remain there--and Zachariah, John, Robert and Judah established themselves in Yarmouth (Dennis). His sons Joseph and Nathaniel and their early descendants, many of whom were mariners and whaling ship captains, married into several of the old historic families of Nantucket--Macy, Hussey, Folger, Coffin, Starbuck, Gorham, Swain, Worth, Gardner, Bunker, Barnard, Pinkham, Chadwick, Coleman and other. A Macy led the first band of settlers on Nantucket Island 1659 (EB 1960 16:70) and a descendant of the Nantucket Macys established the famous department store in New York City. A Hussey took the first sperm whale 1712 which sparked a change in the whaling industry (EB 1960 16:70). From the Folgers derived the mother of Benjamin Franklin and the donor of the Shakespeare museum and library in Washington, D.C. These early whaling families left mansions at Nantucket that are now landmarks, but the 'Oldest House' there, built 1686, is the Coffin-Paddack House on Sunset Hill, also called the Jethro Coffin House and the Horseshoe House because of the large horseshoe-shaped design on its chimney.

"The Paddack-Paddock Burying Ground or Ancient Paddock Cemetery, almost at the foot of Scargo Hill, has been described: 'Within the neat iron-rail and granite-post fence stand the gravestones--along one end marshalled erect, white and briefly-worded, along the opposite end and through the middle of the enclosure dark, moss-grown illegible at times, tipping, split or crumbling into powdery dust' (GrdnADG). The earliest markers show the convential decorations--winged death's head, weeping willow and so on. Many of the early ones give the name PADDACK. Probably the last Paddock to own the cemetery was Hannah H. Paddock (1847-1929) of Boston, Massachusetts.

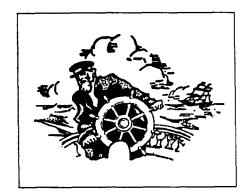

"Elizabeth Twitchell described her visit there in 1897: 'About a mile and a half beyond the town... in a field... a graveyard wholly devoted to one family... not more than 40 graves in all. The old ones were so mossy and sunken that it was as much as we could do to read them.... It was quite impressive to be in such a remote and lovely spot and think back all those years. In the distance, interesting old farm houses with green doors and sometimes old knockers on them, way beyond that the sea and the boats, nearby a tangle of flowers and a great deal of swampy land... and... wild roses still in bloom over the stone walls.' (FRnAP)" The Paddock Genealogy, pp. 28-29.

He married Deborah Sears (42), 1659, in Yarmouth, Barnstable Co., MA^{23} . Children:

Whaler. Much said of his going to Nantucket Island 1690 as a whaling instructor, then of soon after followed by his brothers Joseph and Nathaniel. 'It is one of the proudest traditions of the Capers that Ichabod Paddock of Truro was sent for by the people of Nantucket to teach them whalecraft' (FPdkP). Savage wrote he was 'the subject of a trifling tradition that he was invited 1690 from Cape Cod to Nantucket to teach the art of killing whales... when 18 years earlier James Leper had there been so engaged' (GDNE). 'The most plausible ground for belief that he came to Nantucket lies in its statement as a fact by Zaccheus Macy who died in 1797, aged 83, and hence was contemporary with men who must have been knowing to it' (StbNtk 352). Ichabod did not establish himself there.

At Nantucket (undated) 'Ichabod Paddock and Latham Gardner were disowned for sailing about the harbor "in a vessel where dancing was performed" and keeping company with young women "not of our society"' (QNtk 105). Ichabod became the subject of old sea yarns relating his amorous affairs with emerald-eyed mermaids, one encountered in the belly of a whale called Old Crookjaw, their remains having been found when the whale was captured (API). Granted seven and one-half shares, division of common lands, Yarmouth 1710 (SwftYD 124). An Ichabod Paddock, doubtless he, brought suit against Boston 28 May 1735 (Selectmen Records 13:269)." "Mary Coffin's father arranged for the purchase of Nantucket Island and organized the first group of English settlers on that exposed twelve or so miles of sand and soil thirty miles out to sea. Then off he went to live on it, taking most of his family, including his daughter Mary. Two of his older sons had better sense; they stayed on the mainland.

"What was life like for Mary, who married Nathaniel Starbuck at the age of 18 (some say 17) and had ten children and ran a store and became a leading figure on the island of Nantucket?

"Everyone had to work hard in that rugged situation, and she did the work of a farm woman, while setting up and keeping the only store on the island -- pregnant much of the time with one child or another. She was a strong woman, an acknowledged leader in a male-dominated culture...." Mary Coffin Starbuck and the Early History of Nantucket, by Roland L. Warren, (Andover, NY: Pingry Press, 1987), p. 2

"Mary... was a woman of such excellent judgment that as Thomas Story noted in his Journal she was 'a wise and discreet woman, well read in Scripture and not attached to any sect, but in great reputation throughout the Island for her knowledge in matters of religion, and an Oracle among them on that account, insomuch that they would not do anything without her advice and consent therein.'" The History of Nantucket County, Island, and Town, Including Genealogies of First Settlers, by Alexander Starbuck, p. 665.

"In 1701, at the age of 56, she became interested in the religious faith of the Quakers or Friends, and took the spiritual concerns of the whole island under her special superintendence. She held meetings at her own house which are often alluded to by visiting Friends who have written concerning the island's early religious history, wrote the quarterly epistles, and preached in a most eloquent and impressive manner; and, withal, was as distinguished in her domestic economy as she was celebrated as a preacher." The Coffin Family, p. 73.

"Many Quakers lived on Nantucket. They were called the Society of Friends, and their services were called meetings. They wore plain clothing, were very strict, and lived simple lives. Mary Starbuck, who ran the little store near Hummock Pond, and who was almost like a queen of Nantucket, had the first meetings in her house at 10 Pine Street. It was known at Parliament House (Parliament in England is like our Congress) because she had a large enough room to hold the meetings. Eventually the Quakers built their own meeting house and it is described in a book called Quaint Nantucket, by William Root Bliss:

'The Quaker meeting house of Nantucket was an unpainted building, as destitute of external ornament as a farmer's barn. It was painfully simple; the smooth pine benches had been so frequently washed that they were as clean as a scrubbing board; the floor was sprinkled with white sand; there were no cobwebs on the windows; there was no dust in the corners.

'The worshippers came in softly and when they were seated the stillness of the house was like the stillness of a desert. It was "a first day" (Sunday). The women were dressed in silks, satins, and camlets of quiet colors, - brown, gray, and white; the men were dressed in broadcloths of the same hues, wearing hats, which they removed only during prayer. Girls were dressed like matrons; and they naturally felt that the sober apparel and emotionless habits of Quakerism were a restraint upon their lives, tempting them at times to turn away dissatisfied with the universal calm.'

"These meetings were very quiet and people only spoke if they had something important to say. The boys and girls would get quite fidgety. The Quaker people were very kind and taught their children well.

"The Revolutionary War was particularly hard on the Quakers as they believed in peace and were against war. Some of the young men went to fight, against the will of their parents, and for this they were disowned. In those days the Quakers were not allowed to dance, play the piano, or go on picnics, but they did have one wonderful party, the sheep shearing.... The Quakers have done remarkable things in recent years. Even though they won't bear arms they drive ambulances, work in hospitals, and run refugee camps. The last Nantucket Quaker died in 1899 and was buried with his fellow Quakers in the cemetery on the corner of Madaket Road and Prospect Street." Nantucket, A History for Kids, by Patricia Pullman, (Nantucket, MA: Gray Lady Books, 1988), pp. 33-34.

She married 192 Nathaniel Starbuck 193 , 1662, in /on Nantucket Is, MA 194 . Born, 1635 (?), in Dover, Strafford Co., NH 195 . Died, 6 Jun 1719 (?), in /on Nantucket Is, MA 196 . Death(2): 6 Aug 1719 (?) 197 .

"Nathaniel's marriage was the first one on Nantucket and his daughter, Mary, was the first white child born there. He ran a trading post, where Indians swapped codfish and feathers (used in mattresses) for cloth, hooks, buttons, etc. When Ichabod Paddack of Cape Cod introduced whaling to Nantucket, it was Nathaniel who financed the venture. Due to Nathaniel's whaling interests, land holdings, and store profits, he became one of the wealthiest men--if not the wealthiest man on the Island. So much public business was conducted at his home that it became known as 'Parliament House.' It was also there that Quakerism took root on Nantucket thanks mostly to the leadership of his wife, whose importance and fame quite outshone his own not inconsiderable accomplishments." 63. John⁴ Coffin (Tristram, 30)³⁶. Born, 30 Oct 1647, in Haverhill, Essex Co., MA²⁰⁷. Died, 5 Sep 1711, in Edgartown, Dukes Co., MA²⁰⁸. Occupation: Blacksmith.

"From him the Martha's Vineyard Coffins are descended. He removed to Edgartown after his father's death, about 1682-3. He was elected to some minor offices in Nantucket, and was at Edgartown commissioned a Lieutenant of Militia." The Coffin Family, p. 74.

"...the son of Tristram, and Dionis (Stevens) Coffin was the first one of this large and well-known family to take up his residence at the Vineyard. It will not be necessary to rehearse their ancestral history and their origin in Brixton, Devonshire, as numerous publications on the subject by genealogists of the family are available to students. John Coffin was a blacksmith and lived in Nantucket with his father until 1682 when he settled in E. [Edgartown] and carried on his trade until his death. He m. Deborah Austin, dau. of Joseph and Sarah (Starbuck) Austin of Nantucket 1668. He became a considerable owner of real estate in the town and d. 5 Sept. 1711. His widow returned to Nantucket and d. there 1724." The History of Martha's Vineyard, Dukes County, Massachusetts, in Three Volumes, Vol. III, Family Genealogies, by Charles Edward Banks, M.D., (Edgartown: Published by the Dukes County Historical Society, 1925), p. 96.

"Doubtless many persons from Nantucket who changed their residence to the Vineyard were of Quaker sentiment, and brought with them their 'peculiar' doctrines. The Coffin family was a notable instance of this kind. Persons holding this belief were not accorded full civil rights and were not allowed to serve as jurors. (In 1763, in a civil case, Richard Coffin, Prince Norton and Samuel Coffin, who were drawn as jurors, were objected to as being Quakers. [Mass. Arch., XIV, 480].) As time went on those who were attached to this belief by inheritance or family association gradually affiliated with the new sects which began to be formed on the island about the latter part of the 18th century." History of Martha's Vineyard, Dukes County, Massachusetts, in Three Volumes, Vol. II, by Charles Edward Banks, M.D., (Boston: published by George H. Dean, 1911), p. 172.

"There are not half a dozen gravestones now on the Vineyard which bear date prior to 1700. The oldest stone is that marking the grave of Rev. John Mayhew of the West Tisbury Cemetery, and is dated 1688. The oldest in Edgartown commemorates the death of John Coffin in 1711...." The History of Martha's Vineyard, Dukes County, Mass., in Three Volumes, Vol. 1, by Charles Edward Banks, M.D., (Boston: published by George H. Dean, 1911), p. 502.

"Allen Coffin says, 'For him, to a considerable extent, Tristram reversed the English law of leaving to the oldest son his lands and estates and gave them to his youngest son. Stephen appears to have remained upon his father's estate, and succeeded to the management of the farm and general business cares, and by agreement was to be helpful to his father and mother in their age' p. 58. Mr. Coffin's monograph contains much of interest regarding the Coffin family which could not be included in a general history." The History of Nantucket County, Island, and Town, Including Genealogies of First Settlers, by Alexander Starbuck, p. 702. (GTS 6,7/HbCb 10,40-1-2-4/VNtk/NEHGR 6:324/ESNtk 267/McyNtkOH/AF/TPC/ASLC) Whaler, weaver. Removed from Cape Cod to Nantucket Island as did his brother Capt. Ichabod and Joseph 1690 'or soon after.' Bought from Jethro Coffin and wife 1707/8 the historic 'Oldest House' on Nantucket Island, built 1686, still standing on Sunset Hill, also called the 'Jethro Coffin House' and 'Horseshoe House' because of the large horseshoe-shaped design on its central chimney which remains a mystery. Retained by the Paddock-Paddack family until after the death of his grandson Nathaniel 1848, it has also been refered to as the 'Coffin-Paddack House.' Spring 1726 Nathaniel secured two whales and his son Paul secured four out of 'eighty-six whales captured by boats from the shore' (AP). Conveyed his house to son Paul and sons-in-law Jethro Coleman and George Swain 'seafaring men' 21 Nov. 1743, rec. Nantucket 27 Aug 1744 (5:53). Conveyed half his lands excepting his dwelling house to son Paul 3 June 1747 and again property 13 Mar. 1752, rec. Nantucket (5:118,203). Some descendants used the spelling Paddack (GTS)." The Paddock Genealogy, Descendants of Robert Paddock of Plymouth Colony, Blacksmith and Constable 1646, by Robert Joseph Curfman, (Fort Collins, Colo., published by the author, 1977), pp. 35-36.

"Nathaniel Paddack, weaver, acquired the Jethro Coffin House on 21 September 1708. Born 1677 the son of Zachariah and Deborah (Sears) Paddock of Yarmouth, Nathaniel is thought to have come to Nantucket in 1690 with his brothers Joseph and Ichabod, when the latter was hired by the Town to teach whaling.

"However, Nathaniel does not seem to have exhibited any of the qualities which earned the colorful whalemaster Ichabod Paddack a place in New England folklore for his encounters with 'Old Crook-Jaw,' 'Long John,' and 'the Merwoman.' The rambunctious Ichabod would soon wear out his welcome at Nantucket, but Nathaniel, Joseph and their descendants would remain there, bringing credit to the Paddack name and to Nantucket whaling.

"In 1707 Nathaniel, ca. 29, had married Ann Bunker, ca. 20, daughter of William and Mary (Macy) Bunker. Their son Daniel was born on 12 September 1707. He was probably the only one of their ten children, born between 1707 and 1724, who did not enter the world in their home on Sunset Hill." Jethro Coffin House Chronology, 1686-1986, by Helen Winslow Chase, (Nantucket, MA: Nantucket Historical Association, 1986), p. 15.

"1726: Culmination of shore whaling at Nantucket. Of the 86 whales taken that year, Nathaniel Paddack was reported to have taken two and Paul Paddack, four. It is evident that Nathaniel, who referred to himself as 'weaver' throughout his life, was, like other islanders, forced to seek other means of livelihood by the Woollens Act of 1699 with its restrictions on colonial textile manufacture.

"It is doubtful that Paul, age 12, was old enough to have taken four whales. He could have been given credit as the only 'English' in the boat, possibly owned by Nathaniel, his father, with the majority of the crew being Indian. Or, another Paddack was meant, perhaps even Daniel. It is significant that both of Nathaniel's sons became mariners, not weavers, in response to the changing economy of the island." Jethro Coffin House Chronology, p. 21.

"Nathaniel was probably Nantucket's first 'millionaire' according to a lengthy serialized-article about him by Robert Leach in the November 1966 issues of the Nantucket Inquirer and Mirror. Nathaniel started his career as an apprentice blacksmith in Peter Folger's workshop. When Nathaniel (2 [2nd generation]) provided financing of the whale fishery, Nathaniel (3) supplied the harpoons and other hardware. The son had been named the clerk of the Island's proprietary and Clerk of the Town in 1705 (retaining that office until 1726). He had converted to Quakerism in 1698 and was named in 1708 the first clerk of that religious society's monthly meetings, a position he continued to hold until 1741. Nathaniel was able to develop the mercantile and whaling interests he inherited from his father into very profitable enterprises." Starbucks All, by James Carlton Starbuck, p. 376.

The Coffin Family Newsletter, Vol. IV, No. 14, May 1988, p. 9, has the following "query" and answer:

"In my research about Samuel Coffin, son of John, I find him called 'King Sam.' Does anyone know where he got this nickname? Also, in the biography of Charles Fisher Coffin, Dictionary of American Biography, Vol. II, p. 266, it is stated 'Tristram's grandson Samuel was the first of the family to join the Society of Friends, from which date onward this branch of the Coffin family produced many notable Quaker leaders.' Can anybody verify this?"

David P. Coffin has this "Ed Note: We have read, source now unknown, that Sam was called 'King Sam' because his small size and feisty manner reminded one of a Bantam rooster trying to be king of the yard. As to his being first to join the Quakers, much of what we read would lead me to think otherwise, but he was in the right place at the right time and was certainly an early member."

182. Daniel⁶ Paddock (Nathaniel, 90). Born, 12 Sep 1707, in /on Nantucket Is, MA^{699} . Died, 1743^{700} .

"On 26 December 1726 (10th month in Quaker year) Daniel Paddack and Susanna Gorham were received as members of the Society of Friends in the old meeting house out on Madaket road just east of Blacksmith Nathaniel Starbuck Jr's house and north of Elihu Coleman's.

"Daniel is the first of Nathaniel and Ann Paddack's children to join the Society of Friends. Early records give no indication that the parents were received as members themselves. However, their signatures appear among the witnesses at several of their children's weddings.

"Daniel and Susanna would have 7 children, 2 sons and 5 daughters, born between 1727 and 1741. Because of the lack of early information about the Paddack House, it is possible that several of their children were born in the Jethro Coffin House." Jethro Coffin House Chronology, 1686-1986, p. 23.

"Captain Daniel Paddack died at sea on a whaling voyage. Sloop lost with all on board." Jethro Coffin House Chronology, p. 27.

He married 353 Susanna Gorham 353 , 1 Feb $1726/7^{701}$. Marriage(2): 1 Dec 1726 (?)². Born, circa 1707^2 . Children:

"Paul and Anna would have 6 children, 2 sons and 4 daughters, born between 1740 and 1756--all presumably in the east half of the Paddack House. They would move into the Jethro Coffin House after Grandfather Nathaniel's death. For this reason, and because of the difficulties in documenting the Paddack House already discussed, their births are included in this chronology." Jethro Coffin House Chronology, 1686-1986, p. 27.

"According to whaling historian, Edouard Stackpole: 'As early as 1745, Captain Paul Paddack, a Nantucketer, had built a ship named the Royal Bounty for parties in London and taken her to Greenland on a whaling voyage. He was the first American to actually command a London whaler, and in the crew of mostly Nantucket men were several boys among which were Thomas Delano, Sr., and Charles West, the latter who was to marry Hepsabeth Paddack, daughter of Captain Paddack. From the latter union were born three boys [Stephen, Paul and Silas West] who became outstanding shipmasters.' [Stackpole (1972), 357-358]" Jethro Coffin House Chronology, by Helen Winslow Chase, p. 30.

Compiler comment: I am very frustrated with the information from the computerized Ancestral File of the L.D.S. Family History Center. Intermarriage between families is not maintained and, of course, sources are not listed. I have correspondence that indicates that my fourth great grandfather's first wife was Lydia Coleman, "daughter of Jethro and Lydia Coleman." First cousin marriages were not uncommon. Reportedly no children.

I'm even more confused after reading "The Wives of William's Son William" in the Coffin Family Newsletter, Vol. IV, No. 13, Feb. 1988, p. 13.

Thanks to The Coffin Family, pp. 267, 269, 275, (and the above mentioned article), I think I have the individuals on the correct branches of the "tree."

To recap: Lydia married William Coffin, son of David and Mary Coffin, not William, son of Samuel and Miriam Coffin.

vii. Deborah Coleman⁶⁶⁶. Born, 1757 (??) in /on Nantucket Is, MA⁷³⁸. Died, 24 Aug 1795⁷³⁸. She married⁶⁵⁴ Obed Coffin, 3 Mar 1781⁶⁶⁷. Married her second cousin one time removed.

"William Coffin... removed from Nantucket 8 Apr 1773 with wife Priscilla (Paddock) and all the family who had not previously gone. His son Libni removed to North Carolina 25 Apr 1771 and his son William removed on 30 Oct 1772." Coffin Family Newsletter, Vol. IV, No. 13, Feb. 1988, p. 13.

"The following, taken from S.B. Weeks' 'Southern Quakers,' pages 107-108, gives us some interesting information concerning the Guilford County Quakers:

'The island of Nantucket being small and its soil not very productive, a large number of people could not be supported thereupon. The population of the island still increasing, many of the citizens turned their attention to other parts and removed elsewhere. A while before the Revolutionary War, a considerable colony of Friends removed and settled at New Garden, in Guilford County, N.C. William Coffin (1720-1803) was one of the number that thus removed about 1773. Obed Macy, writing of the period about 1760, says that because of the failure of the whale fishery some went to New Garden, N.C. About the outbreak of the Revolution, because of derangement of their business by the war, some went to New York and North Carolina.

'In 1764, Friends had begun investigations to find out who were the original Indian owners of their new homes, in order that they might pay them for the land, as they were trying to do at Hopewell, Va. It was reported that the New Garden section belonged to the Cheraws, who had been since much reduced and lived with the "Catoppyes," Catawbas. In 1780 two-thirds of the inhabitants of Nantucket were Quakers. Among their leaders were the Coffins, Starbucks, Folgers, Barnards, Husseys.

'During a period of five years there were no less than forty-one certificates recorded at New Garden Monthly Meeting from Nantucket out of a total of fifty certificates received.

'In this number there were eleven families, including many that have since been prominent in Guilford County. Among them were: Libni Coffin, William Coffin Jr., William, Barnabas, Seth (and wife), Samuel (and family), Peter and Joseph Coffin; Jethro Macy, David, Enoch, Nathaniel, Paul (and family), Matthew (and five children) and Joseph Macy; William Gayer, Paul (and family), and William Starbuck; Richard, William, Stephen and Stephen Gardner; Tristim, Francis and Timothy Barnard; Daniel, Francis and Jonah Worth; John Wickersham, William Reece, Jonathan Gifford, Reuben Bunker, Nathaniel Swain, Thomas Dixon.'

"The Pennsylvania and Nantucket Quakers did not mingle and inter-marry with the Scotch-Irish, whose whole modus vivendi was the opposite of their own.

"Almost all the members of the denomination at the present day who are 'birth right,' can trace their descent from one or both of these sources, and those who congratulate themselves upon their Nantucket origin may be interested in the following doggerel which was supposed tersely to describe those same ancestors.

The Rays and Russells coopers are,

The knowing Folgers lazy,
A lying Coleman very rare,
And scarce a learned Hussey.
The Coffins noisy, fractious, loud,
The silent Gardners plodding,
The Mitchells good,
The Bakers proud,
The Macys eat the pudding.
The Lovetts stalwart, brave and stern,
The Starbucks wild and vain,
The quakers steady, mild and calm,
The Swains sea-faring men,
And the jolly Worths go sailing down the wind."

David P. Coffin writes, in the Coffin Family Newsletter, Vol. III, No. 12, Nov. 1987, p. 4: "From John A. Shields, Three Pioneer Families, (Seymour, IN: Privately published, 1949), comes the following story. In his paragraph about Libni Coffin, son of William and Priscilla (Paddock) he had this footnote:

'Mr. O. Q. Trueblood, Salem, Ind., contributes the following:

"While Libni Coffin was working on a whaling vessel, either as seaman or inferior officer, a violent storm arose. The waves began pouring over the vessel and down the hatchway so fast the men could not keep the water down with the pumps. The ship was fast sinking. The Captain gave up and locked himself in the cabin to go down with the ship. As the Captain turned the key, Libni addressed the men: 'If you will follow my directions we will see what can be done.' He then directed them to bring the mess table and fit it into the hatchway opening. This being done, the pumps began to gain, and the ship was brought through the storm. The crew, who were doubtless owners as well as seamen, said to Libni after the storm, 'You have saved our lives and fortunes; from this time on, you will command the vessel,' This incident was related to me by Libni C. Knight, who had it from his Aunt Mary Coffin, Libni's granddaughter."

He married Hepzibah/ Hepsibah /Hepsabeth Starbuck (208), 29 Mar 1767, in Sherborn, Nantucket Island, MA⁸⁰². Marriage(2): 29 Jan 1767 (?)⁸⁰³. Children:

- i. Libni⁸ Coffin³⁵⁰. Born, 16 Dec 1767, in /on Nantucket Is, MA². Died, 21 Sep 1821². Birth(2): 6 Dec 1767 (?)⁸⁰⁰. He married³⁵⁰ Elizabeth Macy⁵⁴³. Married his second cousin one time removed.

- v. Mehitable Coffin. Born, 23 Sep 1773, in New Garden, Guilford Co., NC⁸⁰⁴.
- vi. Anne Coffin.
 - vii. Nathaniel Coffin. Born, 26 Apr 1779, in New Garden, Guilford Co., NC². Died, 15 Sep 1859². Birth(2): 12 Feb 1776 (?)⁸⁰⁰.
 - viii. Ruth Coffin. Born, 10 Jul 1780, in New Garden, Guilford Co., NC⁸⁰⁴. Died, 23 Nov 1847².
 - ix. Abijah Coffin⁸⁰⁵. Born, 8 Jun 1783, in New Garden, Guilford Co., NC⁸⁰⁴.
 - x. Hepsebeth Coffin. Born, circa 1785 (?), in New Garden, Guilford Co., NC². Birth(2): 9 Dec 1786 (?)⁸⁰⁶.

212. William⁷ Coffin (William, 201)⁸⁰⁷. Born, 25 Sep 1747, in /on Nantucket Is, MA⁸⁰⁸. Died, 11 Oct 1796, in New Garden, Guilford Co., NC⁸⁰⁹. Birth(2): 25 Jul 1747 (?)⁸¹⁰. "Removed from Nantucket 1772." The Paddock Genealogy, p. 37. "Removed from the Island 30th, 10 mo. 1772" [30 Dec 1772], The History of Nantucket County, Island, and Town, Including Genealogies of First Settlers, by Alexander Starbuck, p. 723.

David P. Coffin writes, in the Coffin Family Newsletter, Vol. IV, No. 13, Feb. 1988, p. 13: "William Coffin is reported by Starbuck to have married 29 Dec 1768 to Lydia Coleman. He [Starbuck] notes: 'In the list of marriages in the Friend's Records the parents of Deborah and William are given as David and Ruth which is clearly a clerical error as David had no children of those names while his brother William did have.' He refers here to children of William and Priscilla (Paddock) Coffin and William's brother David. In the Coleman family Starbuck has Lydia's husband as 'William Coffin, son of David and Mary.' This version is correct according to Nantucket vital records. Starbuck shows no other. Coffin [in The Coffin Family] and others show two wives, Esther Hunt whom he married Sep 1777 and Elizabeth Vestal married to him about 1790."

David P. Coffin had this query in the Coffin Family Newsletter, Vol. IV, No. 15, Aug. 1988, p. 11: "How many wives did William Coffin have?" Names and dates are followed by another question: "Do any of William Jr.'s descendants or anyone else have more information about this?"

He married 724 , first, Esther Hunt (218), 28 Sep 1777, in New Garden, Guilford Co., NC 811 . Children:

- Elihu⁸ Coffin. Born, 4 Dec 1778, in /on Nantucket Is, MA⁸¹². Died, 1 Oct 1780⁸¹².
- ii. William Coffin. Born, 9 Jan 1781, in /on Nantucket Is, MA⁸¹². Died, 30 Jul 1802 (?), in New Garden, Guilford Co., NC⁸¹². Birth(2): 1 Sep 1781 (?)⁸¹³.
- 224 iii. Elihu Coffin.
- 225 iv. Esther Coffin.

He married⁷²⁴, second, Elizabeth Vestal (210), 1 May 1790⁸¹⁴. Children:

- v. Jabez Coffin. Born, circa 1789 (?), in /on Nantucket Is, MA².
- vi. Achsah Coffin.
- vii. Vestal Coffin.
 - viii. Nathan Coffin. Born, 30 Sep 1794⁸¹⁵. Died, 27 Dec 1864⁸¹⁶. Birth(2): 23 Sep 1794 (?), in /on Nantucket Is, MA⁸¹². Death(2): 1868 (?)⁷³². He married⁸¹⁷ Elizabeth Branson⁸¹⁷. Compiler question: Could Nathan be the son of Levi Coffin and Prudence Williams? He is listed with their children in Encyclopedia of American Quaker Genealogy, by William Wade Hinshaw, Vol. 1, p. 494. W.W. Hinshaw is listing "New Garden Monthly Meeting, p. 216" as his source.
 - NO! Nathan is not the son of Levi and Prudence Coffin. In Reminiscences of Levi Coffin, p. 6, Levi says: "My parents had seven children. I was the only son and next to the youngest child."
 - ix. Job Coffin. Born, 31 Mar 1795⁸¹³. Died, 1860⁸¹³. Birth(2): 31
 Mar 1796 (?), in /on Nantucket Is, MA⁸¹². Death(2): 1 Dec 1843
 (?), in New Garden, Guilford Co., NC⁸¹⁸.

213. Barnabus⁷ Coffin (William, 201). Born, 25 Dec 1751, in /on Nantucket Is, MA^{819} . Died, 13 Aug 1815². Birth(2): 25 Oct 1751 (?)⁸²⁰. Death(2): Feb 1816 (?), in Guilford Co., NC^{821} .

He married Phebe Marshall⁷²⁴, 7 Jan 1773⁸²². Marriage(2): Nov 1772 (?)⁸²³. Born, 20 Jun 1753, in /on Nantucket Is, MA⁸²⁴. Died, 23 Aug 1822, in Guilford Co., NC⁸²⁴. Daughter of Joseph Marshall and Phebe Folger according to The Coffin Family, p. 274, but Coffin Family, by Aaron Macy shows her to be Phoebe (Marshall) Mendenhall, daughter of Joseph Mendenhall and Phoebe. This information in a "query" in the Coffin Family Newsletter, Vol. IV, No. 15, Aug. 1988, p. 12. Children:

- 219 i. Huldah⁸ Coffin.
- 220 ii. Barnabus Coffin.

214. Matthew Coffin (William, 201). Born, 13 Apr 1754, in /on Nantucket Is, MA^{825} . Died, Feb 1816 (??)². Birth(2): 13 Feb 1754 (?)⁸²⁶.

He married⁸²⁷, first, Hannah Mendelhall⁷²⁴, Jan 1774 (?)⁷⁵⁵. Marriage(2): 3 Feb 1774 (?)⁸²⁸. Born, 24 Apr 1751, in Eastcalm, Chester Co., PA². Died, 15 Sep 1800^2 . Birth(2): 24 Apr 1757 (?)⁸¹³. Daughter of James Mendelhall of Guilford. Children:

- i. Grace⁸ Coffin. Born, 21 Jul 1775, in Deep River, Guilford Co., NC². Birth(2): 27 Jul 1726 (??)⁸²⁹.
- ii. Hannah Coffin. Born, 27 Oct 1777, in Deep River, Guilford Co., NC830.
- iii. Elizabeth Coffin. Born, 10 Jan 1781, in Deep River, Guilford Co., NC².
- iv. James Coffin. Born, 22 Jun 1783, in New Garden, Guilford Co., NC. Died, 29 Mar 1838, in Blue River, IN. Birth(2): 26 Jun 1783 $(?)^{831}$. Death(2): 28 Mar 1838 $(?)^{831}$. Burial in Blue River, IN².
 - v. Priscilla Coffin. Born, 10 Jul 1786, in Deep River, Guilford Co., NC⁸³². Died, 18 Nov 1859⁸¹³.
- vi. Lydia Coffin. Born, 18 Mar 1789, in Deep River, Guilford Co., NC⁸³⁰.
- vii. Mathew Coffin. Born, 19 Dec 1791, in Deep River, Guilford Co., NC⁸³⁰.
- viii. Deborah Coffin. Born, 25 Nov 1794, in Deep River, Guilford Co., NC⁸³².
 - ix. Marmaduke Coffin. Born, 23 Aug 1797, in Deep River, Guilford Co., NC⁸³³.

He married 834 , second, Hannah White wid/o David Macy 834 , 1 Dec 1802^2 . Born, circa 1756^2 .

215. Abijah⁷ Coffin (William, 201). Born, 22 Jul 1760, in /on Nantucket Is, MA⁸³⁵. Died, 3 Oct 1793². Birth(2): 22 May 1760 (?)⁸³⁶. "Died unmarried" according to The Paddock Genealogy, p. 37; married according to The Coffin Family, p. 269.

He married³⁸⁰ Elizabeth Robinson, 31 Mar 1791². Born, circa 1770². Children:

- i. Priscilla⁸ Coffin⁸⁰⁵. Born, before 1803.
- 216. Levi⁷ Coffin (William, 201). Born, 10 Oct 1763, in /on Nantucket Is, MA^{837} . Died, 30 Mar 1833, in New Garden, Guilford Co., NC^{814} . Burial in New Garden, Guilford Co., NC^{732} .

He married⁷²⁴ Prudence Williams⁷²⁴, daughter of Richard Williams and Prudence Bales, 4 Jan 1786². Born, 18 Mar 1758, in North Carolina⁸¹³. Died, 2 Jun 1845, in New Garden, Guilford Co., NC⁸¹³. Burial in New Garden, Guilford Co., NC⁷³². Children:

- i. Deborah⁸ Coffin. Born, 29 Nov 1786⁸¹³. Died, Oct 1838, in New Garden, Guilford Co., NC⁸³⁸. She married⁸¹³ William Johnson⁸¹³.
- ii. Beulah Coffin. Born, 3 Mar 1789⁸³⁸. She married⁸¹³ Daniel Pucket⁸¹³.
- iii. Mary Coffin. Born, 10 Mar 1791⁸¹³. Birth(2): 10 Mar 1792 (?)⁷³². She married⁸¹³ Benjamin White⁸¹³.
- iv. Ann Coffin. Born, 23 Apr 1793⁸³⁸. She married⁸¹³ Samuel Kellum⁸¹³.
 - v. Sarah Coffin. Born, 29 Sep 1796⁸³⁸. Died, 13 May 1816, in New Garden, Guilford Co., NC⁸³⁸.
- vi. Levi Coffin.
 - vii. Priscilla Coffin. Born, 31 May 1801⁸³⁸. She married⁸¹³ William Place⁸¹³.
- 217. Priscilla Coffin (William, 201). Born, 21 Oct 1765, in /on Nantucket Is, MA^{729} . Died, 28 Dec 1793². Birth(2): 11 Oct 1765 (?)⁷³².

She married 540 Asa $Hunt^{540}$, 2 Feb 17852. Born, 1 May 1759, in New Garden, Guilford Co., NC2. Children:

- i. Miriam⁸ Hunt⁸⁰⁵. Born, before 1803.
- ii. Libni Hunt⁸⁰⁵. Born, before 1803.
- 218. Esther⁷ Hunt⁷²⁴. Born, 21 Sep 1755, in New Garden, Guilford Co., NC^2 . Died, 21 Oct 1787, in /on Nantucket Is, MA^{812} .

She married 724 William Coffin (212).

EIGHTH GENERATION

219. Huldah⁸ Coffin (Barnabus, 213). Born, 15 Jan 1775, in New Garden, Guilford Co., NC^{839} . Died, 20 Jan 1837, in Washington Co., IN^{839} . Burial in Washington Co., IN^{840} .

Huldah and Jesse Stanley's son Elijah married Mary Meredith.

Elijah and Meredith Stanley's daughter, Mary (31 May 1831-11 Jan 1905), married James Barnes Pennington (16 Dec 1829-?).

James and Mary Pennington's son, James Charles (17 Mar 1866-7 Mar 1942), married Margaret Ellen Bush (2 Aug 1866-25 Oct 1953).

James and Margaret Pennington's daughter, Myrtle Ivan (10 Dec 1903-), married Lotus Burrell Allen (8 May 1904-1 Mar 1969).

Lotus and Myrtle Allen's daughter, Annabel (29 Dec 1926-), married Irwin Villani. Annabel supplied Lorraine Frantz Edwards with Coffin family information, in August 1988, when Lorraine knew absolutely nothing about the Coffin family. Annabel and Lorraine are fifth cousins.

She married Jesse Stanley, 1 Sep 1793⁸³⁹. Born, 19 Jan 1770, in New Garden, Guilford Co., NC⁸³⁹. Died, 5 Aug 1843, in Washington Co., IN⁸³⁹. Burial in Washington Co., IN⁸⁴⁰. Children:

- i. Elijah⁹ Stanley. Born, 7 Nov 1803^{839} . Died, 3 Jan 1895, in Washington Co., $1N^{839}$.
- 220. Barnabus⁸ Coffin (Barnabus, 213)⁸⁴¹. Died, before 1842.

He married⁸⁴¹ Sarah⁸⁴¹. Children:

230 i. Lydia Esther⁹ Coffin.

221. Levi⁸ Coffin (Levi, 216). Born, 28 Oct 1798^{842} . Died, 16 Sep 1877, in Avondale, (Cincinnati), Hamilton Co., OH^{843} . Burial in Cincinnati, Hamilton Co., OH^{844} .

"Levi was noted for his labors in behalf of fugitive slaves prior to the war of 1861 and to the freedmen during and after the war. In 1876 he published a book of Reminiscences. His early life was passed in North Carolina, whence he removed to Indiana, 1826, and thence in 1847 to Cincinnati, Ohio. He died at his residence in Avondale, a suburb of Cincinnati." The Coffin Family, p. 284.

EIGHTH GENERATION

"Another Vignette About Levi Coffin," Coffin Family Newsletter, Vol III, No 11, Aug. 1987, p. 12. David P. Coffin writes: "Since the biographical sketch of Levi Coffin, of the underground railway, was printed in the February 1986 issue, subscriber Sally Pusey has sent us, inter alla, an item from the February 23, 1856 Friends Intelligencer which will enhance our knowledge of this great man and his Quaker faith. The item was submitted to the Intelligencer with the following note:

'FRIEND MOORE, -- I clip the following from a late Cincinnati paper, and it carries out so effectually, the spirit of religion, as professed by Friends, that I thought it would probably find room in 'Friends Intelligencer.'

Truly thine, C.M.T.'

"2nd mo. 11th, 1856

HATS OFF IN COURT

Friend Levi Coffin appeared in the U.S. Court Rooms, Friday, during the trial of the fugitives, and stood as Quakers are accustomed to, with his hat on. A very officious Special Marshal, employed for this occasion to assist in preserving order and the Union, regarding this as an insult to the U.S. and himself as her representative, approached Friend Coffin and demanded inperatively that he should uncover before him and commissioner Pendery. Friend C. explained that he meant no disrespect, but it was the custom of their people. It would not do. The brave Special Marshal raised his cane and knocked the offending broad brim on the floor. Friend C. paid no attention to this, but remained motionless. In a little while the Marshal returned, picked up the hat and handed it to Levi, who took no notice of it whatever, and the Marshal deposited it on the table. But the brave Marshal was not at ease, and shortly after this he returned, took the hat and placed it very gently on Levi's head, and the last we saw of Friend Coffin he stood there with his hat on, looking as coolly on the proceedings as though nothing had ever happened to disturb his equanimity."

(Levi Coffin is Lorraine's first cousin five times removed.)

He married Catherine White, 28 Oct 1824^{843} . Born, 9 Oct 1803^{845} . Died, 22 May 1881^{845} . Daughter of Stanton and Sarah White. Children:

- i. Jesse S.⁹ Coffin. Born, 1 Aug 1825⁸⁴⁶. He married Meekey B. Williams, 8 Jan 1852⁸⁴⁶.
- ii. Addison Coffin. Born, 9 Jul 1828845. Died, 22 Nov 1830845.
- iii. Thomas F. Coffin. Born, 15 Sep 1831845. Died, 29 Mar 1832845.
- iv. Henry W. Coffin. Born, 22 Oct 1836⁸⁴⁶. He married Sadie Amick⁸⁴⁶, 18 Jan 1867, in New York, NY⁸⁴⁶.
- v. Anna U. Coffin. Born, 14 Aug 1839845. Died, 16 Jul 1850845.
- vi. Sarah Emeline Coffin. Born, 2 Oct 1843⁸⁴⁵. Died, 16 May 1869⁸⁴⁵.

222. Alethea⁸ Fluke. Born, 16 Apr 1798⁸⁴⁷. Died, 11 Feb 1891, in Hendricks Co., IN⁸⁴⁸. Burial in New Garden, Guilford Co., NC⁸⁴⁹. "Her mother's name was Mary," according to Joyce Page information.

EIGHTH GENERATION

In the article "What Was It Like To Live In North Carolina" in the Coffin Family Newsletter, Vol. IV, No. 15, Aug. 1988, p. 10, paragraph 4: "Travel was by foot, horseback, buggy, wagon and stagecoach.... There's a tale about Alethea Coffin walking and riding a horse from North Carolina to Indiana. Days and weeks were involved where we now take a day or two by road or an hour or two by air...."

Compiler comment: Alethea Coffin was my great-great grandmother. On this Labor Day weekend, September 5-7, 1992, I am reading everything I have available on the Coffin family (and entering information in the computer). On September 30, 1992 (Lord willing), I will have a seven hour flight from Los Angeles, California to Boston, Massachusetts, followed by a short flight to Nantucket. I will be attending the 350th Anniversary of Tristram's settlement on the island -- and the Coffin Family Reunion.

She married Vestal Coffin (227).

223. Anne⁸ Coffin (Libni, 211). Born, 12 Jul 1777, in New Garden, Guilford Co., NC^{850} . Died, 17 Dec 1859^{851} . Burial in White River, Randolph Co.(?), IN^{852} .

"Anne Coffin, wife of Zachariah Hiatt, was born 12 July 1777. She was the daughter of Libni and Hepzibah (Starbuck) Coffin. The Coffin family was of old New England stock migrating from Nantucket Island to North Carolina in the middle eighteenth century. Tristram Coffin born in 1605 immigrated from England to Salisbury, Mass. in 1642 with his wife and their children. He was one of the original purchasers of Nantucket Island. He died there in October of 1681 and his wife a year later. One of their children, John, was born 30 October 1647 married in 1668 to Deborah Austin. To John and Deborah Coffin was born Samuel on 12 December 1680. John Coffin died 5 September 1711. His wife Deborah died 4 Apr 1718. Samuel married 1705 to Miriam Gardener and they had among other children William, who married 4 October 1740 to Priscilla Paddock. To William and Priscilla Coffin was born Libni. Libni was born 7 August 1745 married 29 January 1767 to Hepzibah Starbuck, daughter of Joseph and Ruth (Macy) Starbuck. She was born 23 Mar 1749 in Nantucket and died about 1825 in Wayne County, Indiana.... Anne Hiatt died 17 December 1859 and was buried at Whiteriver." The Guilford Genealogist, published by The Guilford Co. Genealogical Society of NC, Vol. 16, No. 4, Summer 1989, p. 210.

She married Zachariah Hiatt, 17 Sep 1803^{853} . Born, 1 Dec 1779^{853} . Died, 31 Dec 1860^{793} . Son of Joseph Hiatt.

"It is not known when Zachariah Hiatt and his family left Grayson County, Virginia. It is likely that it was about the same time that Jonathan and Christopher were given certificates to Fairfield Monthly Meeting in Ohio, 1813. No evidence shows that he settled in Clinton County, Ohio, but more likely came to Wayne County, Indiana, as his wife's relatives were moving there. Tucker says that Zachariah Hiatt first settled in Wayne County. His stay must have been short as he is recorded as resident of Randolph in the 1820 census. He entered land in White River township in January 1818. It has been said that Zachariah Hiatt had a small nursery that he maintained from an early date in conjunction with his farm. He died 31 December 1860 and was buried in the Whiteriver Burying Ground." The Guilford Genealogist, published by The Guilford Co. Genealogical Society of NC, Vol. 16, No. 4, Summer 1989, pp. 209-210. Children:

- i. Moses⁹ Hiatt. Born, 6 May 1804⁸⁵³. He married Elvina Edwards⁸⁵³, 1821⁸⁵³.

 - ix. Sally Ann Coffin. Born, 25 May 1827863. Died, 5 Mar 1867, in Oregon⁸⁶⁸. She married⁵⁶³ Abram Tenbrook⁸⁶³.

- x. Warner Miflin(g) Coffin. Born, 13 May 1829⁸⁶¹. He married⁸⁶¹ Maria Hobbs⁸⁶¹.
- xi. Nathan Hunt Coffin. Born, May 1833⁸⁶¹. Died, 1 Apr 1863⁸⁶². He married⁸⁶¹ Sally Stuart⁸⁶¹.
- 225. Esther⁸ Coffin (William, 212). Born, 11 Oct 1787, in /on Nantucket Is, MA^{869} . Died, 15 Jan 1869². Birth(2): 10 Oct 1787 (?)². Death(2): 1866 (?)⁸⁰⁰. Married her fourth cousin one time removed.

She married⁸⁰⁰, first, William Starbuck (228).

She married⁸⁰⁴, second, Jesse Gardner⁸⁰⁰.

226. Achsah⁸ Coffin (William, 212)². Born, 16 Mar 1791, in New Garden, Guilford Co., NC^{870} . Died, 27 Dec 1870, in Amo, Hendricks Co., IN^{871} . Death(2): 1872 (?)⁸⁷².

"Achsah Coffin, the first child and only daughter of William Coffin, Jr., and his second wife, Elizabeth Vestal, was born at New Garden, Guilford County, North Carolina, on 16 March 1791. She had three younger brothers, as follows:

Vestal b. 10 October 1792 d. 10 October 1824
Nathan b. 23 September 1794 d. 27 December 1864
Job b. 31 March 1796 d. 1 December 1843

Achsah's father died 11 October 1796, when she was five, and her mother on 13 April 1816, when Achsah was twenty-five.

"Achsah's brother, Vestal, was instrumental in starting the Underground Railroad which assisted slaves to escape to non-slavery states and to Canada. Vestal recruited his cousin, Levi Coffin, who handled the Indiana terminus of the Railroad. When Vestal died, on his 32nd birthday, Levi continued the work and is known as the President of the Underground Railroad.

"On 31 January 1827, Achsah married, as his second wife, Joseph Hubbard. At the time of their marriage at the New Garden Monthly Meeting, North Carolina, Achsah was 36 and Joseph 76. Before Joseph died on 17 August 1832, two sons were born:

John Russell Hubbard, b. 20 October 1827 Samuel Nixon Hubbard, b. 9 August 1829

"As did many other New Garden Quakers in the mid-nineteenth century, John and Samuel removed to Indiana. Just prior to the Civil War, Achsah left North Carolina and moved to Amo, Hendricks County, Indiana, where Samuel and his family lived. She died in Amo 27 December 1870." David P. Coffin, editor of the Coffin Family Newsletter, shared this information with Lorraine Edwards in May 1987. Written by Joyce Page. [At the Coffin Family Reunion on Nantucket, Oct. 1992, Lorraine and Joyce were comparing information. Joyce indicated that she shared the above data with David Coffin, and David Coffin subsequently shared it with Lorraine.]

She married Joseph Hubbard²⁵⁶, 31 Jan 1827^{873} . Born, circa 1751^{871} . Died, 17 Aug 1832^{871} . Children:

- i. John Russell⁹ Hubbard. Born, 20 Oct 1827⁶⁷¹.
- ii. Samuel Nixon Hubbard. Born, 9 Aug 1829871.

227. Vestal⁸ Coffin (William, 212). Born, 10 Oct 1792, in /on Nantucket Is, MA^{874} . Died, 10 Oct 1826, in Greeneboro, Guilford Co., NC^{815} . Death(2): 10 Oct 1824 (?)⁸¹².

"In North Carolina, Underground methods are known to have been employed by white persons as early as 1819. According to Siebert, The Underground Railroad, p. 117, 'Vestal Coffin organized the Underground Railroad near the present Guilford College in 1819. Addison Coffin, his son, entered its service as a conductor in early youth and still survives in hale old age. Vestal's cousin, Levi Coffin became an antislavery apostle in early youth and continued unflinching to the end. His early years were spent in North Carolina, whence he helped many slaves to reach the West.' Levi Coffin removed to Indiana in 1826. Of his own and his cousin's activities in behalf of slaves while still a resident of North Carolina, Coffin wrote:

'Runaway slaves used frequently to conceal themselves in the woods and thickets of New Garden, waiting opportunities to make their escape to the North, and I generally learned their places of concealment and rendered them all the service in my power. These outlying slaves knew where I lived, and, when reduced to extremity of want or danger, often came to my room, in the silence and darkness of the night, to obtain food or assistance. In my efforts to aid these fugitives I had a zealous co-worker in my friend and cousin Vestal Coffin, who was then, and continued to the time of his death--a few years later--a staunch friend to the slave.'"

- viii. Esther Jane Starbuck. Born, 1 Oct 1824, in Wayne Co., IN². Died, 29 Jun 1847². Birth(2): 30 Sep 1824 (?)⁷⁹⁶.

229. Jane⁸ Starbuck (William, 209). Born, 17 Apr 1791, in New Garden, Guilford Co., NC^{876} . Died, 10 Dec 1847^{877} . Birth(2): 17 Apr 1790 (?), in Guilford Co., NC^{878} . Death(2): 10 Dec 1857 (?)². Married her fifth cousin.

She married Elihu Coffin (224).

230. Lydia Esther⁹ Coffin (Barnabus, 220)⁸⁴¹.

She married Samuel Knight841. Children:

i. Rachel Lena¹⁰ Knight⁸⁴¹.

231. William Gaston⁹ Coffin (Elihu, 224). Born, 26 Feb 1811⁸⁵⁷.

David Coffin writes, in the Coffin Family Newsletter, Vol. I, No. 3, August 1985, pp. 3-4: "During much of the Civil War, the man in charge of Indian Affairs in the West was Colonel William G. Coffin, superintendent of Indian affairs for the Southern District of Kansas. In a private letter to the Secretary of War, Gen. Jas. G. Blount had the following to say.

'Among the second class [Government peculators] are Thomas Carney, Governor of Kansas, and Colonel Coffin, Superintendent of Indian Affairs. Two greater thieves do not live. Their wholesale robbery of those poor unfortunate refugee Indians is so gross and outrageous that their names are a stench in the nostrils....' Official Records of the Union and Confederate Armies in the War of the Rebellion, Series I, Vol. 48, p. 543.

"A few months earlier Colonel Wm. A. Phillips had written:

'I find that there has been a gigantic swindle by Coffin and McDonald in corn in the nation. ... The President authorized the expenditure of $200,000. What do you think the rascals did? Coffin telegraphed that McDonald & Co. could furnish corn for $7.... He sends agents all through the Cherokee country buying at $2 and $2.50.'

"It gets even worse after this. The genealogical spot for $\mbox{Wm. G.}$ is not known, but should be easy to find in the archives."

David P. Coffin writes, in the Coffin Family Newsletter, Vol. III, No. 9, Feb. 1987, p. 10: "We believe that the true facts and nature of our ancestors should be reported, and events and traits which cannot be 'pointed to with pride' should be included along with the honorable and the exemplary. We also believe that we should all strive to know the true facts and look askance at and not be carried away with those statements which are based on wishful thinking along with careless research...."

David P. Coffin: "Chapter two of Donald Lines Jacobus' Genealogy as Pastime

and Profession, is entitled 'Puritan Peccadilloes' and in it he discusses Puritan humor and the lack thereof, witchcraft and 'fun and games' our ancestors engaged in. He states, 'It should never be forgotten that truly religious people were no more common in 1630 than they are today.' In chapter three, 'Family Pride,' he discussed faults beyond peccadilloes, pointing out that genetically, we have nothing to fear about any traits beyond those of our grandparents; he says family pride may be the motive that first attracts us to genealogical studies. As we progress, this pride suffers one or more jolts when we discover ancestors with whom we would not care to associate. If we retain our interest in spite of wounded pride, and persevere in our genealogical studies, we pursue these matters in better perspective and discover that we have gained something in cultural experience. The above is setting the stage for mention of some of our much respected ancestors who are not above reproach.

"We won't mention the many cases of children born out of wedlock and the many premature births, they were probably no more or less common in colonial times than in this century.... In newsletter No. 3, we mentioned some of the wrongful actions of Indian Affairs Superintendant Col. William G. Coffin during the Civil War. Here are a few more at which we can frown. We hope no one takes offence at this unveiling of reputed blemishes on otherwise untarnished and laudable records.

INTERMARRIAGE WITH ABORIGINES? Ms. Grace Joyce Page has recently sent a copy of an article from the Fall/Winter 1973 North Carolina Genealogy written by William Perry Johnson and entitled 'North Carolina Families from Nantucket Have Indian Ancestry?' Johnson tells undocumented tales about marriages between Nantucketers and Indians, all based on rumors, tradition and imagined Indian characteristics of some Nantucket descendants. ... Inbreeding among the settlers of Nantucket became so bad that it was common practice for a widower, rather than remarry another cousin, to take an American Indian wife. This Indian wife would then be christened with the name of the first wife, whose date of death would be obliterated from the records, thus covering up the Indian blood in the record.'" Coffin Family Newsletter, Vol. III, No. 9, Feb. 1987, pp. 12-14.

(William G. Coffin was Lorraine's half-first cousin four times removed.)

He married 866 Semirah $Hunt^{857},\ 20$ May 1834, in North Carolina $^{858}.$ Daughter of George and Dorcas Hunt. Children:

- i. George B.¹⁰ Coffin. Born, 10 Jun 1835⁸⁷⁹. He married Sarah B. Hammond, 20 Oct 1859⁸⁸⁰. Farmer, Leavenworth, Kansas.
- 242 ii. Elihu E. Coffin.
 - iii. Oliver S. Coffin. Born, 13 Jul 1838⁸⁷⁹. He married, first, Ruhama Gookins, 29 Apr 1862⁸⁸⁰. He married, second, Mary Jane "Jennie" Smith⁸⁸⁰, 6 Mar 1869⁸⁸⁰. Farmer, Humboldt, Kansas.
 - iv. Jane Coffin. Born, 14 Sep 1840⁸⁸¹. She married A. S. Penfield⁸⁸¹, 19 Mar 1862⁸⁸¹.

- v. Josephine Coffin. Born, 20 Jul 1843⁸⁸¹. She married⁸⁸¹ Dr. Robert Aikman⁸⁸¹.
- vi. Benjamin Coffin. Born, 25 Feb 1845881. Died, 9 Sep 1846881.

 - ix. Samuel Diggon Coffin. Born, 14 Jun 1851881. He married Mary Alice Anderson⁸⁸¹, 16 Oct 1873⁸⁸¹.
 - x. Amanda Coffin. Born, 3 Jun 1853881.
 - xi. Charles Sumner Coffin. Born, 23 May 1855881.

232. Honor⁹ Willoughby. Born, 15 Mar 1794, in New York⁸⁸². Died, 23 Feb 1837^{882} .

She married Persons Smith (239).

233. Alfred Vestal⁹ Coffin (Vestal, 227). Born, 26 Oct 1818, in New Garden, Guilford Co., NC^{862} . Died, 19 Jul 1895^{882} . Birth(2): 26 Oct 1819 (?)⁸⁸². Occupation: Physician.

Quoting from a letter written by David P. Coffin on 28 Sep 1987:

"In reading The Life and Travels of Addison Coffin, I came across on page 126 an 'almost' proof that the Col. William G. Coffin was 07D040, on page 296 of The Coffin Family. Addison had the following to say:

'At the breaking out of the rebellion a part of the Indians in Indian Territory remained loyal and were driven from the territory and took refuge in Kansas and claimed and received government protection. Cousin William G. Coffin was appointed superintendant of those refugees, and he called brother to take charge of the medical department. On New Years day 1863 he started for his place of service, leaving his two children with my wife, who was to have care of them; this she did until they grew to womanhood.'

"Addison had a half-first cousin William Gaston Coffin, son of William Jr.'s first wife. The brother he mentions is of course, Alfred Vestal."

Compiler (Lorraine Edwards) comment: The obituary notice for my great grandmother, Olma (Coffin) Smith, indicates that "the family moved to Kansas in 1860." In actuality maybe Dr. A.V. Coffin went alone and left Luella and Olma with their Aunt Ruth (Hadley) Coffin. The Coffin Family, p. 298, indicates that less than eleven months after "he started for his place of service (Kansas)" he married Miranda Randall.

Compiler has many questions about these families. The birth year for Miranda Randall (1805) must be an error. She would not be bearing children at age 63 and 69. What happened to this second family?

He married, first, Mary E. Johnson (237), 15 Jun 1848, in Franklinville, Randolph Co., NC^{883} . Children:

- i. Luella C.¹⁰ Coffin⁸⁸⁴. Born, Apr 1850⁸⁸². She married Nathan Albertson⁸⁸², 1869⁸⁸². "According to the 1922 Who's Who Among Earlhamites, Luella C. Coffin was enrolled from 1864 until 1866." Quote according to a letter from Earlham College, Richmond, Indiana, dated 23 Feb 1984, addressed to Lorraine Frantz Edwards. Also: "...an enrollment list from the summer of 1866... contains the names of Olma Coffin and her sister, Luella."
- 246 ii. Olma "Ollie" Celeste Coffin.

He married, second, Miranda F. Randall (236), 25 Oct 1863885. Children:

- iii. Mary Estella Coffin⁸⁸⁶. Born, Sep 1868, in Kansas⁸⁸².
- iv. Alfred Vestal Coffin Jr. 886. Born, 1874, in Le Roy, Coffey Co., KS882.
- 234. Addison⁹ Coffin (Vestal, 227)². Born, 23 Jan 1822, in New Garden, Guilford Co., NC^{887} . Died, 16 Apr 1897^{256} . Birth(2): 21 Jan 1821 (?)⁸⁸².
- David P. Coffin, in the Coffin Family Newsletter, Vol. III, No. 11, Aug. 1987, p. 9, lists two books by Addison Coffin:
 - 1) Early Settlement of Friends in North Carolina: Traditions and Reminiscences, (Greensboro, NC: The Southern Friend: Journal of the North Carolina Friends Historical Society, Volumn V No's 1 & 2 and Volumn VI No's 1 & 2, Spring & Autumn 1983 & 1984). This four part serial is of a paper written by Addison Coffin in 1894 for Mary Mendenhall Hobbs. It was to have been published, and the proceeds were to have been given to the Girls' Aid Committee. The manuscript was typed in 1932 and again typed and edited in 1952. The editors of The Southern Friend have the following to say:

'Lewis Lyndon Hobbs considered this to be a valuable history of North Carolina Friends; especially concerning the beginning of their work up to and including the period of the War Between the States, and their migrations. It contains interesting stories, notably "Ann the Huntress" and the minutes of the Manumission Society.'

- 2) Life and Travels, (Greensboro, NC: 1897). This book was published for the benefit of the Girls Aid Committee of the North Carolina Yearly Meeting (to enable North Carolina Quaker women to attend Guilford College).
- David P. Coffin, in the Coffin Family Newsletter, Vol. III, No. 12, Nov. 1987, p. 11, has this review of Life and Travels, by Addison Coffin, (Cleveland, OH: 1897): "Addison says he had not kept a diary, always depending on memory for reminescences of the past. He states that '...things that are striking, things that touch and arouse sympathy, sorrow, joy, anger, disgust, hatred, hope and fear; things that arouse, excite, or deeply impress; things that inspire, exault, and refine, etc., require no effort on my part to remember;....' And the amount of information and detail in the book rivals that to be expected if he had kept a diary.

"He starts off with his paternal and maternal family background. (He did some wishful thinking about how far back the Coffin family can be traced.) There is interesting genealogical information about his immediate family. He then describes his very extensive travels in this country and in England and other countries. His descriptions of the people and places are very interesting. Chapter Five tells of his being crushed beneath a loaded wagon, and his miraculous recovery and illustrates his great faith. This faith can be seen throughout the book. He seemed to attend Quaker Meetings anywhere he was. In some cases his travels were scheduled with Yearly or other Meetings in mind. The final chapter is about his last days and was written by his daughter Ida Coffin Doan."

(Addison Coffin was Lorraine's great-great-granduncle.)

He married²⁵⁶ Ruth Hadley, daughter of Joshua Hadley and Rebecca Hinshaw, 13 May 1854². Born, 10 Oct 1824, in Spring, Iredell Co., NC⁸⁸⁸. Died, 3 May 1889²⁵⁶. Death(2): 5 Mar 1889 (?)². Children:

- i. Ida¹⁰ Coffin⁸⁸⁹.
- 235. Emory Dunreath⁹ Coffin (Vestal, 227)⁸⁹⁰. Born, 19 Sep 1824, in New Garden, Guilford Co., NC^{887} . Died, 4 Jul 1863⁸⁸⁷.

He married an unknown woman. Children:

- i. Julius Vestal¹⁰ Coffin.
- 236. Miranda F. Randall⁸⁸⁷. Born, Nov 1805 (??)⁸⁸². Died, 10 Sep 1889⁸⁸².
 She married Alfred Vestal Coffin (233).
- 237. Mary E.⁹ Johnson⁸⁶². Born, circa 1822 (?), in Alabama². Died, 1860 $(?)^{882}$. Birth(2): 1827 (?), in Randolph Co., NC⁸⁸².

She married Alfred Vestal Coffin (233).

- 238. Phoebe Gaffield⁹ Watson. Born, 27 Aug 1809⁸⁹¹. Died, 14 Sep 1888². She married Persons Smith (239).
- 239. Persons⁹ Smith. Born, 17 Jan 1790, in ?Massachusetts⁸⁹¹. Died, 21 Sep 1872, in ?Michigan². Census: 16 Jul 1850, in Sheridan, Chautaqua Co., NY⁸⁹².
- Compiler comment: A "query" regarding these families appeared in Coffin Family Newsletter, Vol. III, No. 9, Feb. 1987, p. 8 -- but compiler never received a response. Perhaps correspondence was "returned to sender" because I moved soon after and subsequently took a Post Office Box.

He married, first, Honor Willoughby (232), 25 Nov 1813882. Children:

- Alanson¹⁰ Smith. Born, 4 Oct 1814⁸⁸². Died, 31 Jan 1881⁸⁸². He married Julia Drumm⁸⁸², 1840⁸⁸².
- ii. Lusetta Smith. Born, 16 Mar 1816882. Died, 20 Sep 1823882.
- iii. Alonzo Smith. Born, 2 May 1818⁸⁸². Died, 19 Sep 1823⁸⁸².
- iv. Arastus Reiley Smith. Born, 14 Feb 1821⁸⁸². Died, 18 Sep 1823⁸⁸².
- v. Jerome A. Smith. Born, 31 Jan 1825⁸⁸². Died, 24 Mar 1866⁸⁸². He married Eveline L. Bent⁸⁸², Apr 1858⁸⁸².
- vi. Persons H. Smith. Born, 2 Nov 1827⁸⁸². Died, 1878⁸⁸². He married Frances Ward⁸⁸², Jul 1858⁸⁸².

He married, second, Phoebe Gaffield Watson (238), 6 Mar 1838⁸⁸². Children:

- vii. Mary Smith.
- 244 viii. Gideon Watson Smith.
 - ix. Honor Smith. Born, 11 May 1843^{882} . Died, 19 Nov 1872^{882} . She married Jacob Ahlefeldt 1869^{882} . 21 Jul 1869^{882} .
 - x. Charles Rodney Smith. Born, 10 Jul 1847882. Died, 1 Oct 1923882. He married Mary Bishop882, Sep 1869 (?)893.
 - xi. Cafains M. Smith. Born, 7 Jun 1849882. Died, 17 Jan 1850882.

244. Gideon Watson¹⁰ Smith (Persons, 239). Born, 4 Nov 1841, in Dunkirk, Chautauqua Co., NY⁸⁸². Died, 24 Dec 1930, in Seattle, King Co., WA⁸⁸². Burial in ?Seattle, King, WA⁸⁹⁶. "Wounded in thigh, Cold Harbor, June 1, 1864; promoted to Corporal, July 26, 1864; absent since June 1, 1864." History of the One Hundred and Twelfth Regiment N.Y. Volunteers, by Wm. L. Hyde, (Fredonia, NY: W. McKinstry & Co., 1866), p. 170.

From the newspaper Palacios Beacon, dated Dec. 14, 1923: G.W. SMITH THINKS PALACIOS A GARDEN SPOT

"Capt. G.W. Smith, one of the very active, young old veterans, came here about three years ago in quest of health and a place to retire. After being here a short while, he decided it was the place he had been looking for, and purchased a neat little cottage home with two lots near the east bay. With his health greatly improved, he began to live his life over again. In other words, he went to work, planting his vacant lots to fruit trees, consisting of oranges, kumquats, grape fruit, plums, grapes and last spring he added two olive trees, or rather two small sprouts he had received from California, which have put on a most remarkable growth. Mr. Smith also grows all kinds of vegetables, strawberries, etc., and his yard is a veritable flower garden almost continually.

"Mr. Smith has a son living in California, who made a trip east last summer and before leaving home informed his wife he would return by the way of Palacios and 'get dad and bring him back to God's country.' After arriving here and inspecting the fruit orchard of his father's and noting the thrifty appearance of everything, especially the olive trees, which he said he had never seen do better in California, he advised 'dad' to stay right here regardless of the pleasure it would give him to have his father live nearby.

"Following is a list of the different kinds of fruit Mr. Smith has growing on his one acre of ground, 26 varieties, all doing nicely:- Ten apples, two apricots, six kumquats, two currants, seven crab apples, three cherries, seven grapefruit, eight Japanese persimmons, two limes, two lemons, ten mulberries, two olives, two prunes, five pomegranite, three quince, 25 figs, 30 grapes, 22 oranges, 20 peaches, 35 plums, 15 pears, 40 raspberries, 200 blackberries, 300 dewberries, 700 strawberries, two gooseberries."

Obituary notice (no date nor city and state):

He married Olma "Ollie" Celeste Coffin (246), 22 Feb 1873882. Children:

- 248 i. Oakev Hall¹¹ Smith.
- 249 ii. Merle Elmo Smith.
- 250 iii. Ina Bird Smith.

245. Katie Agnes¹⁰ Smith (Persons, 239). Born, 9 Jan 1851^{892} . Died, 9 Dec 1882^{882} .

She married Elihu E. Coffin (242).

246. Olma "Ollie" Celeste¹⁰ Coffin (Alfred Vestal, 233)⁸⁸⁴. Born, 14 Apr 1852, in Alabama⁸⁸². Died, 20 Jan 1925, in Palacios, Matagorda Co., TX^{882} . Birth(2): 13 Apr 1831 (??)². Death(2): 16 Jan 1925 (?)². Burial in Palacios, Matagorda Co., TX^{897} .

Obituary notice: Mrs. G.W. Smith

"Another Palacios citizen went to her eternal home when Mrs. G.W. Smith, a beloved wife and mother, passed away at her home in the city, Tuesday, January 20, 1925.

"Olma C. Coffin was born in Alabama in 1852. Her father, Dr. A.V. Coffin, a noted physician, was an anti-slavery man. This necessitated that he move to North Carolina, where the daughter started to school at New Garden. In 1860 the family moved to Kansas, the father having a government appointment as physician to the Indians. The daughter attended Richmond College, Indiana, where she graduated in 1872. Returning to the home in Kansas, she met Gideon W. Smith, to whom she was married in 1873.

"To this union three children were born, Mr. O.K.H. Smith, who now resides on the Island of Anna Cortez, off the coast of the state of Washington; Mr. Merle E. Smith, of Redland, Calif., and Mrs. Ina B. Showalter, of Corona, Calif.

"In 1920 Mr. and Mrs. Smith came to Palacios to make their home. By industry and good taste they developed one of the most beautiful and productive spots in the city of Palacios.

"The deceased was a strong, noble character, most charitable to all needy people, always doing kindly deeds. In religious belief she belonged to the Friends. She will be greatly missed among her neighbors and acquaintances.

"The burial will be in the Palacios cemetery, probably on Saturday. However the time is uncertain as the son from Washington will not reach Palacios until Friday. Rev. H.G. Fraser will have charge of the services."

Contrary to the information in the obituary: "Coffin, Olma '65-67, [from] Amo, IN." Statistics in a letter (dated 31 Jan 1984) from Earlham College, Richmond, Indiana, to Lorraine Frantz Edwards. The material also indicates "Coffin, Luella C. '64-66, Amo, IN."

She married Gideon Watson Smith (244).

247. Julius Vestal¹⁰ Coffin (Emory Dunreath, 235)⁸⁹⁰. Died, 1874⁸⁹⁰.

He married⁸⁹⁰ Sarah Elma Jones⁸⁹⁰. Children:

i. Howard Earle Vestal¹¹ Coffin. Born, 6 Sep 1873, in West Milton, Miami Co., OH⁸⁹⁰. Died, 21 Nov 1937, in St. Simons Is., Glynn Co., GA⁸⁹⁸. He married Matilda Vary Allen⁸⁹⁸, 1907⁸⁹⁸.

"Howard E. Coffin was born on a farm one mile west of West Milton, Ohio on 6 Sep 1873. He was the son of Julius Vestal and Sarah Elma (Jones) Coffin. Howard was christened Howard Earle Vestal and was a 9th generation descendant of Tristram... (Howard, Julius Vestal, Emory, Vestal, William, William, Samuel, John, Tristram).

"His father died when he was less than a year old and his early years were spent in the house in which he was born. He lived with his widowed mother, a widowed aunt, a spinster aunt Mary Jones and a bachelor uncle William (Billy) Jones. He attended a country school near his home, a school in West Milton, and at age 14 he spent a year in a boarding school in Marysville, Tennessee. His mother then took him to Ann Arbor Michigan where he attended High School before entering the engineering department of the University of Michigan.

"In the late 1890's the automobile industry was in its infancy in Detroit. In his mother's home there Howard built his first internal combusion engine and his first automobile, which was powered by steam. This automobile was supposedly in the famous Ford Museum in Dearborn, Michigan. This was only the beginning of a fast and successful career for this creative man who soon became chief engineer of the Olds Motor Works, then the largest of its kind in the world.

"Coffin had designed a medium priced auto which the Olds Co. chose not to use. Howard with two young friends who were also interested in the automobile business, with financial assistance from E.R. Thomas of the Thomas Motor Co. organized the Thomas-Detroit Co. with Coffin as Vice President and Chief Engineer. The new model car was instantly successful and the young men were on their way to being millionaires.

"Howard Coffin was later with the Chalmers-Detroit Co. where he acquired one-third of the stock. There he designed the popular Chalmers car and a 'Model 20.' J.L. Hudson, head of the largest department store in Detroit permitted his name to be used to form the Hudson Company. On 19 June 1909 the Hudson Motor Company advertised in the Saturday Evening Post a four cylinder roadster which sold for $900. This was Howard's 'Model 20' and was very successful.

"Howard Coffin was also active in work for the government. In 1915 when it seemed that the United States would become involved in the European war he was appointed by Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels to serve on the Naval Consulting Board under the chairmanship of another great inventor, Thomas A. Edison. He served in many important capacities throughout the war and the following years. It is said that he was one of the few men in Washington who supported Major Billy Mitchell's efforts to strengthen the United States air power.

"Coffin became enamored with the Georgia coastal areas and eventually established the Sea Island Company in beautiful Glynn County. This popular summer resort was later operated by his cousin Alfred Jones. Howard Coffin himself bought the plantation (with more than 1000 acres cleared for farming) and 'The Big House' on Sapelo Island, 10-20 miles north of Sea Island, another of 'The Golden Isles of Guale,' a term given them by 16th century Spanish cartographers. The house had been built by Thomas Spalding, a pre-Civil War farmer and politician, but had been laid waste by Sherman in his march to the sea and was rebuilt by Howard Coffin in 1925.

"Howard Coffin worked with and was friends with presidents Woodrow Wilson, Calvin Coolidge and Herbert Hoover. The later two were guests at his Georgia estate. Charles A. Lindbergh landed a small plane there when he came to visit. Henry Ford also visited there, as did perhaps Thomas A. Edison.

"Howard Coffin married Matilda Vary Allen, of Battle Creek, Michigan in 1907. Howard died 21 Nov 1937. He and Matilda are both buried in Christ Church Cemetery on St. Simons Island on the Georgia coast he loved so much." Coffin Family Newsletter, Vol. IV, No. 13, Feb. 1988, pp. 3-4.

As compiler of this limited material on my Coffin-family ancestry, I want to quote something I read in the Coffin Family Newsletter, Vol. III, No. 9, Feb. 1987, p. 8: "People who take no pride in the noble achievements of remote ancestors will never achieve anything worthy to be remembered with pride by remote descendants." This wise comment is ascribed to "Macauley."

I, Lorraine Frantz Edwards, am fascinated by family research and enjoy reading about the Coffin families. My time and energy is spent, primarily, on research regarding my Frantz ancestors. Perhaps future generations will thumb through Frantz Family - Kith & Kin, the way that Coffin descendants study The Coffin Family.

"People will not look forward to posterity who never look backward to their ancestors." - Edmund Burke (1729-1797) - Coffin Family Newsletter, Vol. III, No. 11, Aug. 1987, p. 9.
